Romulus summer job program may end

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Board of Education members Monday tabled a motion to stop participation in a summer employment program for students.

In past years, the program has been a source of summer work for low-income students. Local teens who are handicapped or wards of the court are also eligible for the federally funded program.

Superintendent William Bedell told board members he has received numerous complaints about participants in the program who worked in district schools. Students assigned to paint jobs were reportedly sloppy in their work, spilling paint.

A larger problem, Bedell said, is lack of supervision. Some of the students goofed off during work hours and became rather loud, he said. Bedell said that behavior is a bad reflection on the district.

Unless district employees such as janitors and maintenance workers agree to provide supervision, the district should not participate in the program this year, Bedell said.

Chris Powers, who heads the Romulus teacher union, spoke in favor of the program. Through it, she said, students can earn up to $1,000 during one summer.

Powers added students have been placed in several settings besides the local schools without problems.

If participants are sloppy, she said, it is because they are learning job skills as they go.

"I'll be the first to admit this is a training program," she said.

"It's supposed to be a training program, but I'm not sure we're training," Bedell said.

Without proper supervision, participants may not benefit from the work program, he explained.

Also in favor of continuing the program was board member Edward Wilkerson. He said the opportunity the program offers students outweighs any problems.

Board members are expected to discuss the issue again May 14.

Grand opening ceremonies were staged April 26 for the Romulus Adolescent Health Center in Romulus Senior High School. More than two years were spent planning the facility, which is available to local youth ages 11 to 19. Touring the new clinic with her son, Patrick Betzold, was Project Director Kate Conway (above). Teen health center grand opening staged Nearly one year after the Romulus Board of Education agreed to pursue state grant money for a teen clinic, a grand opening was staged April 26 for the Romulus Adolescent Health Center.

The clinic is located in Romulus Senior High School and is open to Romulus youth ages 11 to 19.

Romulus residents, educators, health providers, parents and students spent two years as an advisory committee researching the health center proposal.

The project was under constant criticism during that period from a group of local parents who said a health center would undermine their authority. Sonda Stepchuk was one of the most outspoken critics of the clinic proposal. A health center, she said, could easily become a source of indirect abortion referrals. Clinic officials could send teens to places that do provide abortion information, she said.

Stepchuk, who heads the Romulus Pro-Life organization, said she and other local parents plan to closely monitor the clinic.

"We will be keeping an eye on it for quite some time...years possibly," she said.

Stepchuk added that the school district should do more to educate students about abstinence and pro-life philosophies.

"I'd like to see more pro-life in the school system," she said.

Meanwhile, opening ceremonies symbolized a victory for members of the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee.

Project Director Kate Conway came to the clinic opening after spending six months on maternity leave.

"It was interesting to come back. When I left everything was on paper. It's an incredible feeling," she said. "A lot of people thought this would never happen."

Health center services include general physical exams, gynecological services, treatment for sports injuries, vision and hearing screenings, immunizations, screening and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases, pregnancy testing and referral for prenatal care, birth control counseling and referrals, weight management programs, health education, substance abuse education and counseling, mental health counseling, services and assistance for homeless or runaway youth and crisis intervention.

All health center representatives stress the clinic will not dispense birth control pills or

Mayor is chairwoman of new women's organization

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A large group of area community leaders and business people gathered in Romulus April 26 to kick off a new woman's organization affiliated with the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally, honorary chairwoman of the "Women's Network," said the group will enlist the efforts of active, successful women to help each other and girls looking forward to careers.

"Everyday we see women entering career fields that have never before been available to them," McAnally said. "They are becoming business owners, political leaders and entrepreneurs. They are growing through educational, community and personal experiences while they continue to be partners, wives and mothers...The one thing that seems to be missing is an opportunity to network with other women who are progressing in achievement in divergent fields and with different interests."

The "Women's Network" is designed to meet that need, McAnally said.

Members will meet annually for a luncheon at a local facility. Participants will attempt to learn the needs of modern girls and share experiences.

McAnally served as keynote speaker during the initial network meeting. Women today are still fighting to achieve some of the rights men already enjoy, she said.

"It's sad to say women today have no more protection under the Constitution than they did in 1919 when they got the vote," she said.

Girl Scouts organizations, which formed the "Women's Network," are one of the positive forces working for women and girls, the mayor continued.

"Girl Scouts of America is one of the few organizations devoted to girls," she said.

Additional speakers at the luncheon were Gail Scott, executive director of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, and Peggy Seery, council president.

Also present at the meeting were Sally Hodges of community planning firm McKenna Associates, Inc.; Charlene Mitchell, public relations manager for Michigan Bell Telephone; Romulus City Clerk Linda Choate; Delores Newell for Wayne County Commissioner Susan Heinz; Diane Hazen of Romulus Public Library; Elaine Gumper of Orchard, Hiltz and McClements, Inc.; Betsy Brown of the city of Romulus; Jill Karolyi, of Belleville; Judge Carolyn Archbold of Wayne; Van Buren Township Treasurer Helen Lynn Foster; Jane Vesche of Belleville; Van Buren Township Trustee Pat Birbeck; Mary Chambers of Wayne; Karen Norton, wife of Wayne Mayor Pat Norton and Wayne Councilmember Donna McEachern.

For more information about the network call the girl scout council at 483-2370.

Romulus man is robbery suspect

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

An off-duty Inkster police officer captured one of two men who police believe were involved in an early morning holdup of a McDonald's Restaurant in the city of Dearborn Heights.

The suspect is from Romulus, police said. They refuse to release his name, pending his arraignment on the armed robbery charges.

According to police reports, Inkster police officer Darian Williams was having breakfast at the restaurant, located at 25660 Michigan Avenue, in Dearborn Heights.

Williams said he heard a commotion at the front of the restaurant, went up to investigate, and discovered that the restaurant had been robbed.

Williams said he observed two suspects outside the building, armed with handguns. The suspects fled on foot and Williams gave chase. The chase went over fences and other obstacles before the Inkster police officer managed to apprehend one of the subjects.

The suspect surrendered without further incident, and was placed under arrest for investigation of armed robbery. The second suspect managed to elude police and they are still looking for him.

Inkster Police Chief Terry Colwell commended Williams for his action and recommended the officer for a departmental citation for exemplary service.

GOOD NEWS ABOUT TEENS

Remember the old toothpaste commercial in which a youngster proclaims, "no cavities. Mom!" Well, it's happening in real life. Nationally, 27 percent of today's American boys and girls ages 12 to 17 do not have a single cavity.

Much of the credit, of course, goes to education about dental hygiene. The use of fluoride in toothpaste and in some cases the prescribing of fluoride supplements by the dentist or the application of fluoride by the dentist directly to the teeth also is given credit for the improved statistics.

Part of the credit for "no cavities" goes to increasing use of sealants. These are clear or shaded plastic materials which the dentist applies to chewing surfaces of the back teeth, a common site for decay because of depressions and grooves too tiny to be reached by toothbrush bristles. Sealants provide a thin, hardened covering that keeps out food and plaque.

The American Dental Association recommends sealants for all children. The sealants are most beneficial if applied when the permanent teeth erupt.

Election primary nears, candidates file

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Voters in Canton Township, Westland, Inkster, Wayne, Belleville, and Romulus will be voting in local elections, and all voters will be going to the polls to consider state and national positions, in the primary staged August 7.

A U.S. senator, U.S. congressman, three state senators, and four state representatives, two regents for the University of Michigan, two board members for Michigan State University and Wayne State University will be positions upon which voters will decide. Also during the state convention a secretary of state, lieutenant governor, and an attorney general will be nominated to be placed on the November ballot.

Other seats up for election this November include: state supreme court, district court, circuit court and appeals court.

On August 7 voters will be asked to choose candidates from each party to compete in the November election for governor. At this point, no one has officially filed although it is fairly obvious that Republican state Rep. John Engler will challenge Democratic incumbent James Blanchard.

The deadline to file for all candidates seeking any of the above seats is 4 p.m. May 15, according to Brad Wittman, director of information and voter registration in Lansing.

In congressional district 15 which covers Westland, Romulus, Belleville, Canton and Wayne, Congressman William D. Ford's term will expire. Ford is a Democrat. Businessman and Southgate resident Burl C. Adkins is expected to challenge Ford as he seeks the Republican nomination.

In congressional district 17, which includes voters in Inkster, Democrat Sander Levin's term expires. Wittman said no one has applied for candidacy in this district as of yet.

Residents of the 12th district will vote to narrow the field for the state Senate this August and will elect a senator in November. The district includes voters in Belleville, Romulus, Wayne and Westland. Currently the seat is occupied by William Faust who is a Democrat.

In the sixth district, Canton Township, voters will also elect a state senator. The district is currently represented by R. Robert Geake.

Voters in Inkster will vote for a state senator for the position currently occupied by Democrat George Z. Hart.

In the state House of Representatives districts 36 and 37, which are occupied by Republican Gerald Law and Democrat James A. Kosteva, both terms will expire this year.

In state House district 33, which includes Inkster and Westland, Rep. William R. Keith will be considered for re-election.

In the state House 38th district, Rep. Justine Barns' term will expire in November.

As of April 27, no proposals had been certified for the November ballot. Proposals can be placed on the ballot by citizens who file petitions and by the state legislature.

"Proposals are usually decided later in the game," Wittman said.

Proposals concerning education funding in the state are expected to be placed on the ballot, according to officials.

District deficit expected to decrease

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

District officials Monday said they are optimistic about the newest financial report for Romulus Community Schools.

The report projects a reduction in the accumulated deficit for the district from $779,373 to $524,268, according to Joel Carr, assistant superintendent for finance and operations.

Carr said the largest reason for the reduced deficit is a new policy of handling payments to Blue Cross for district employees. In past years, he said, money was placed in reserves to pay for this benefit. Now the money is being allocated as it is needed, Carr explained.

"We're getting some savings from that," Carr said.

Also coming into play are decisions made by district officials last year.

"We've closed down a couple of facilities," Carr said, referring to Hayti Elementary School and the Beacon Day Treatment Program.

Hayti and the South Junior High School building that housed Beacon are both on the market.

Meanwhile, the district no longer pays maintenance or utility bills for the facilities.

Carr said he cannot predict whether or not the deficit will decrease further. Approximately 83 percent of the district budget goes toward salaries and fringe benefits, he said. Thus, the district will reach a point where it can no longer cut back expenditures.

However, new sources of revenue could make a difference.

"It depends what happens on the state level," Carr said.

Several school reforms are in the talking stages in Lansing, he said, but school officials know little about them at this point. Without more information, officials do not know how the district may be affected.

"We're playing a five-card game, but we only have three cards," Carr said.

Local officials become actors in recent murder mystery

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

History repeated itself in the fictional town of Eagle Rock Saturday when a group of people at a party turned sleuth to solve a murder mystery.

These amateur detectives are local officials and business people turned actors for the day to collect money for the Romulus Arts Council.

Their production, A Vintage Murder, was written by art council secretary Pat Ditsch. It picks up 10 years after the first fund-raiser play left off last year.

Once again, people in the audience were seated with cast members on the set at Holiday Inn-Detroit Metro Airport.

"It went great, most of the people had a great time," said Alice Kesner, who helped organize the production.

Kesner estimated between $800 and $900 were collected from the event, the second mystery sponsored by the art council.

Cast members included Romulus Mayor Beverly McNally, 34th District Court Judge William Szlinis, state Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton), Romulus Prosecutor Norman Kohlstrand, Comfort Inn General Manager Julie Merritt, Assistant Superintendent of Romulus Schools Terrel

LeCesne, Romulus City Councilmember William Wadsworth, Romulus Treasurer James Napiorkowski and Romulus Community Development Director Dennis Oakes.

"They were all great," Kesner said. "All of our actors are hams at heart. It was really a community affair."

According to the plot of A Vintage Murder, a dinner party was staged by Eagle Rock residents and election workers for a senator. The action is set in 1955.

Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack portrays the senator, who has received several death threats before the dinner party. Security at the event is heavy.

But it was another member of the party who was murdered that night, an Eagle Rock alderman portrayed by Napiorkowski. He was poisoned, Kesner said.

The remaining guests team up with Eagle Rock detectives (portrayed by Romulus police officers) to solve the mystery.

Eventually, Kohlstrand's character was identified as the murderer.

"And boy, did he play it up big," Kesner said.

His character was the victim's partner in several past murders, Kesner explained. Apparently, the Eagle Rock alderman was starting to become sloppy in his work so his partner did him in.

Adding to the atmosphere of the play, actors were encouraged to dress in 1950s style. Finding costumes and props from that era was a bit of a challenge, Kesner said.

"The biggest problem with 1955 is there wasn't a lot remarkable about that year," she said.

Kesner said several representatives from community groups said they would be interested in sponsoring a play next year. If the art council does tackle the project again, it will invest in microphones for the actors, she said.

Romulus principals' offices see change

Principal announces retirement

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

After more than 39 years in education, Nick Tottis has decided to take a break.

The Wick Elementary School principal announced last week he will retire this June.

Tottis spent the last 22 years of his career in Romulus. Before coming to Wick five years ago he worked eight years as assistant principal and nine years as principal at Romulus Junior High School.

"I've been lucky," Tottis said. "I've had good staffs and excellent secretaries. I've been blessed in that respect."

Tottis said teaching philosophies among the teachers he works with have changed little during the years.

"Their philosophy is every child can learn. That philosophy is still prevalent."

As principal, he said, his role has been to educate the total child.

"It's not just reading and writing. It's socialization, responsibilities, being active in school activities."

Although the educator's role has expanded over the years, Tottis said he believes some things will never change. Students must now learn to use computers, he said, but they must also learn to write with a pencil and paper.

"We're still teaching the basics," he said.

In addition, the role of the parent in education remains important, Tottis said.

"I think schools need more parent support," he said. "A parent doesn't necessarily have to belong to a group...Be aware. Be in touch with the child's classroom teacher."

What is changing in education today is the role of technology, Tottis said. When he completed his degree in teaching, he had been taught to operate filmstrip machines and tape players.

"Educators today should know how to use a computer and any other technology they will run across," he said.

Now looking ahead toward retirement, Tottis said the students and community he works with have always been his favorite part of the job.

"The Romulus community has been great with me, and Romulus has a great group of kids."

And after 22 years in one community, Tottis has the advantage of seeing the fruits of his labor.

"I have parents now that I had earlier as students in the junior high school," he said.

Tottis said his top priority during retirement will be relaxation.

New Halecreek principal hopes to end year on positive note

Lynne Mossoian has found herself shifting offices several times during the last year before settling into the principal's desk at Halecreek Elementary School.

In May 1989, she was directing the Beacon Day Treatment Program in the former South Middle School building. When the program for emotionally disturbed children was moved to another community, Mossoian chose to remain in Romulus.

After a brief period as assistant principal at Romulus Junior High School and a maternity leave, Mossoian accepted the acting principal position at Halecreek.

Principal Art McPharlin gave up his traditional responsibilities to direct a district-wide school-improvement program.

Mossoian said she does not know how long she will remain at Halecreek, but she is enjoying the time she has there.

"This is a wonderful school. Mr. McPharlin has created a nice atmosphere here," she said. "Parent involvement is exceptional. There are always parents in the building."

When she arrived at Halecreek, Mossoian told teachers and staff members she has two goals. First, she said she hopes to create a smooth transition between McPharlin and herself. Second, she wants a smooth end to the school year.

How can we end the year on a positive note?

Working toward that goal, Mossoian helped develop a lunch time program at the school. The program concentrates on student behavior during that period and establishes a pattern of rewards and punishments.

"It makes rules clear and the consequences (of breaking them) predictable," Mossoian said. "It's going quite well."

The lunch time program ties in with some of Mossoian's philosophies about school leadership.

"I believe the first thing you have to establish is a safe and predictable atmosphere for students. All students deserve an opportunity to learn. All teachers deserve an opportunity to teach."

Also important for success, Mossoian said, is cooperation from everyone in a school.

"In order to create an exciting educational program for kids, you need to have involvement from all of the staff," she said.

Mossoian said she is excited about the new school-improvement program, which will allow teachers, administrators, staff and parents to evaluate the district and suggest changes.

"I think it's excellent. All schools need to look in this day and age at restructuring. It's very exciting."

devices. Abortion counseling, referrals and services are also forbidden at the center.

All potential patients younger than 18 years must submit a signed parental consent form before utilizing any of the clinic services. Parents can withdraw permission at any time.

Staffing the health center is a part-time medical director, Dr. Natalia Tanner. Tanner is a pediatrician in private practice and on the staff of Wayne State University and Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit.

The staff also includes a full-time nurse practitioner certified to care for adolescents. A counselor is available at the clinic on a part-time basis.

The main source of funding for the health center is a grant from the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Nearly all of the equipment in the facility has been donated, including a refrigerator for the laboratory from a group of high school students and several desks from the junior high school.

Skateboard park plans progress at slow pace

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Progress on the Romulus skateboard park has come to a near halt in recent weeks, recreation representatives said.

The city-operated park was proposed nearly a year ago by a group of local teens and then recreation director, Debbie Dick. They suggested a park would offer skateboard enthusiasts a safe place for their activity.

Those who use the park would register with the city and would be responsible for obeying posted safety rules. A city employee would be assigned to the park, according to the proposal.

Elmer Johnson Park on Wick Road was established as home for the facility after city councilmembers reluctantly approved the project last summer. Several councilmembers at that time said they were worried about the liability risk a skateboard park could pose.

Since that time, initial construction has been completed for the facility.

"As it stands now, it's a piece of blacktop," said Duwayne Martin, Romulus recreation director.

Martin said the recreation department last month arranged a meeting for residents involved in the skateboard park project. No one attended, he said.

The city does plan to move forward with the project, Martin said. Recreation officials are now waiting for a series of ramp designs from the city planner.

"It hasn't been forgotten," he said. "Our future plans are to make it a viable part of the community. It will be operative. We just need to know what and how before moving forward."

Early census reports are favorable for area

By BARBARA WILSON
ANP Managing Editor

Census forms continue to stream into area and regional census offices in Wayne County and the state of Michigan, and so far the results are good.

To date, census officials are reporting an 80-percent check-in rate at the Livonia office, 15 percent better than the national average. The check-in rate reflects the return of forms from the complete mailing list.

"That rate will only go higher at this point," said Randy Edwards, area manager for the U.S. Census Bureau.

As the mailing list is changed to reflect vacant homes and

We budgeted for 70 percent return. All of the publicity surrounding the census really helped to bring that average up.

— Randy Edwards
U.S. Census Bureau area manager

apartments, the average will improve. Edwards, however, said 80 percent is nothing of which to be ashamed.

"We budgeted for 70 percent return. All of the publicity surrounding the census really helped to bring that average up," Edwards said. "Regionally, we are successful, I think because of the publicity, community awareness efforts, and we have a fairly well-versed population."

Edwards said he believes those who have not returned their forms in the mail are unable to because they don't understand the form, because the residence is vacant or because the residents are too busy.

Enumerators for the census will be hitting the streets today, Edwards said. They will be using a computer-generated list, and will stop at homes and apartments from which census forms have not been received. Approximately 12,000 enumerators will be going to work across the state, making this one of the more expensive aspects of the census process, Edwards said.

Enumerators will go over the census form with those who have not completed it as yet, and will return the form for processing.

"Our goal is not to have too many callbacks to the homes," Edwards said.

The enumerators are working at a cost of $1 million per day for the nation, Edwards said.

Enumerators will also make note of homes and apartments which are vacant, condemned or razed.

They will be out in the neighborhoods for five to six weeks, checking and double-checking their lists.

"We're very apprehensive about deleting houses," Edwards said.

The enumerators will continue to check vacant homes, and should someone move in proper steps are taken to secure a census form.

Beginning August 1, local census offices will gradually close leaving only tabulation centers open. The final counts are required to be on President George Bush's desk by Dec. 31, 1990.

"It's an expensive process, but the money was budgeted and the census is very important for the country and the communities," Edwards said.

Area man still missing

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County Sheriff's officials received a report of a man's body seen floating in the Lower Huron River last Friday, and officials believe the body could have been that of missing Westland group home resident Sidney Bright.

On April 15, Bright, 27, disappeared after he and another resident ran from the area where they had been picnicking with others. Although the other resident returned, it was reported that Bright slid down a hill, picked himself up and kept running, according to officials.

Officials Friday received a call from a witness who said she saw a body of a black male floating in the river, according to Nancy Mouradian, Wayne County Sheriff's Department spokeswoman.

The first call was confirmed by a second witness who also spotted the body of a black male.

"We're not certain it was Bright, but we searched for two weeks," Mouradian said.

Police officials once again dragged the river and conducted air searches with the help of the civil air patrol and the Detroit Police Department.

The search party once again failed to locate Bright, who is said to have the intelligence of a 7-year-old, according to officials.

Mouradian said slide marks were found near the area where Bright was last seen near the river, but officials remain unsure if the marks were left by Bright.

"There are a lot of theories. The weather was quite cool and he may have suffered from hypothermia, but it's all speculation," Mouradian said.

Bright is described as a 6-foot black male with a mustache. He was last seen wearing white pants and black shoes, according to officials.

Officials have searched the park on foot, by air and with dogs. Mounted police and rangers also participated in the search effort.

Bright is a resident of the Oakwoods Lane Group Home in Westland. Mouradian said divers are now expected to search the river.

Anyone with information about Bright or his whereabouts, should contact the state police at 782-2434.

Cleanup

Dozens of area residents gathered Earth Day weekend to help clean up an area nature preserve. The William P. Holliday Nature Preserve is a 500-acre forest and wetlands in Westland, Canton Township and Livonia. It has become a favorite spot for bird-watching and hiking, and is considered one of the most pristine natural areas in the county. ANP photo by Debbie Pourtney

Concert series slated

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

A series of concerts in Victory Park will begin with an appearance by the Ambassadors on June 24 and end with a performance by the Northville Jazz on Aug. 12.

The music series, which was founded by the Belleville Music Committee in 1989, has been expanded this year from five to eight concerts, said member Cathie Cameron.

Among the performers are the Ypsi Band, Dixieland band, clown band which will stage a children's concert and Joyful Noise, a choral group.

Closing the five-part summer concert will be the 18-piece

Northville Jazz Orchestra, which appeared in the 1989 concert series.

The band, directed by Rick Balek, was formed six years ago by alumni of Northville High School, and now includes members from Toledo, Ann Arbor and Anchor Bay as well as "old-timers" from the original group.

"We started out playing in a Northville concert review six years ago," said assistant director Brian Buckmaster. "Then we called ourselves the Alumni Jazz Band. Our name evolved to the Northville Jazz Band and then recently to the Northville Jazz Orchestra."

When the group appeared last year in Victory Park, it featured five saxophones, five trumpets, five trombones and three rhythm players. In addition to their Belleville performance, the group played at the Plymouth Fall Festival, a series in Farmington, a performance at Tiger Stadium and many other engagements in the area.

"We have some really good musicians playing with us, and we play a variety of music from the standards to modern tunes and television themes," Buckmaster said.

True to the "jazz" in their name, the orchestra features the music of some of the all-time greats of the jazz world - Woody Herman, Stan Kenton, Glenn Miller and Maynard Ferguson.

Students deliver safety message to peers

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus high school students are to receive a rather persistent message this spring about drinking and driving — don't do it.

The message focuses on prom night. Students will see it when they rent tuxedos, when they buy flowers and when they arrive at the dance for their big night.

Sponsoring this campaign are members of the Romulus Students Against Driving Drunk chapter.

Members purchased a set of business cards with the name of their group, and a plea to avoid drinking and driving. Several area tuxedo and flower shops have agreed to distribute these cards to customers.

During prom night, SADD members will continue to distribute the cards with one change. On the back of the cards will be two dimes and a list of telephone numbers for taxi service.

Stacie Brown, vice president of the 2-year-old group, said this is the first detailed campaign focusing on prom night.

Members hope to keep their message alive later this year by sending letters to graduating seniors. The letters will include statistics about deaths related to drunken driving, and a plea to students to refrain. They will also carry a note of congratulations.

The strength of SADD, according to members, is the group does not preach. Students are warning each other about what they risk every time they drive after drinking. Their ages may make members more effective speakers, Brown said.

"Most teen-agers don't like to listen to adults," she said.

SADD members plan to march May 18 in the Romulus Festival parade. They've already purchased a large banner for the event.

After the parade, the students will visit the festival carnival rides. This outing is open to anyone who wants to join them.

In the planning stages is a schoolwide assembly sponsored by the group. It would feature skits by members of the drama club and poetry readings.

SADD member Juanita Piazza said she already has a stack of poems for the assembly written by Romulus students.

Legislators discuss change mandating 'equitable' education

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

State lawmakers are putting together language for a proposal that will amend the Michigan Constitution which, if approved by the voters, will guarantee students not only a free but also an equitable education.

A House subcommittee, chaired by William Keith (D-Garden City) is preparing the proposal language that will assure students attending in-formula schools equity with their counterparts in the richer school districts, according to Keith.

"Presently, there is language in the state constitution assures students of a free education," Keith said. "It doesn't address itself to the question of equity in the financing of the schools."

"Once we have the language on equity incorporated in the constitution, then we can proceed to address the problem."

Keith explained the per-pupil spending presently in the more

I believe that we're spending enough money on education. However, I believe that we're also spending money in wrong places.

— William Keith

than 500 K-12 school districts ranges from $2,200 in the poorer districts to nearly $8,000 in the richer districts like Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills.

"The in-formula districts are clamoring for changes, and some 60 of them have joined to sue the state for a more equitable way to fund schools," Keith added. "We have been unsuccessful in addressing that problem as evidenced by the recent defeats of Proposal A and B."

In November 1989, Michigan

voters resoundingly defeated two proposals — Proposal A and Proposal B — which proponents said would mean $400 million new dollars for education. The proposals would have increased the state sales tax on one hand and decreased the property tax.

Keith said his committee is reviewing Resolutions Q and S which amend the constitution to include the language on equity in education. If the resolutions are approved by the state house and senate, they would be presented to the voters in the form of a statewide referendum. Upon voter approval, the proposal would become law and need not have the governor's signature.

Approximately $6.4 billion was spent on public education during the 1988-89 school year, of which 57 percent of those monies was derived from local property taxes; 39 percent from state funds distributed to local districts through the State School-Aid Formula and through categorical grants such as transportation and special education. State officials stress that 100 percent of all the lottery profits, about $480 million, is earmarked for public education.

"I believe that we're spending enough money on education," Keith said. "However, I believe that we're also spending money in wrong places."

Keith singled out the categorical awards to such rich districts as Birmingham and Bloomfield.

"We're funding these (rich) districts to the tune of $2.2 billion a year. If you put that kind of money back into the formula, we are going to equalize the formula."

In the meantime, former Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson and Richard Headlee, former chairman of the board of directors of the Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co., have organized petition drives that focus upon their versions of finance reform packages. They hope to have enough signatures to place their proposals on the November ballot.

Legislation allows for takeover of school districts

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

A bill was recently approved by members of the state House of Representatives and the Senate to increase state powers to take over financially troubled school districts.

Legislators became concerned about the future of school districts facing bankruptcy when Detroit Public Schools officials were unable to convince voters in Detroit to approve a millage. Since then Detroit voters have passed a millage.

"We first were concerned about Detroit, before the millage passed. We have at least a half-dozen school districts that are in trouble," said state Sen. Dan DeGrow, sponsor of the bill.

Before a school district can qualify for help from the state, it must meet one or more of the situations spelled out in the bill. If it does, the state superintendent can then declare the district as troubled, according to DeGrow.

Once a school district has been taken over by the state, the state would review the district finances and begin managing the district. The state would also be in control of the district finances.

One of the areas that would be focused on would be the current condition of the local government.

"The main thing is that we wanted to make sure we had legislation in place before the problem arises," DeGrow said.

The state would have the authority to initiate ballot proposals to increase taxes within the troubled district. State officials could also put the district into receivership, according to DeGrow.

In-formula school districts that must rely on the state for funding, along with dollars brought in from the community are having difficulty keeping the levels of per-pupil funding at an appropriate level, according to DeGrow.

One of the reasons for this, according to officials, is due to the Headlee Rollback Amendment, which sets back the amount of tax dollars levied through millages to a certain percentage each year.

The bill has been supported by the State of Michigan Department of Treasury, the State of Michigan Department of Education and the The Michigan Federation of Teachers. The Michigan Association of School Boards opposes the bill.

Wetlands may benefit from airport expansion officials say

Proposed airport plans to move wetlands to make way for an expansion project will eventually benefit the area environment, county officials claim.

The county recently applied to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for a permit to fill 15 acres of wetlands on the proposed development site for a 1,500-foot runway extension.

State environmental officials usually require developers to replace, or mitigate, displaced wetland within the development site or in the immediate vicinity.

The wetlands have a better chance of "survival" near the original site.

In this case, however, DNR representatives may allow the county to mitigate the wetlands in another section of the county. They claim new wetlands on airport property may attract wild animals and pose a danger for aircraft.

Wayne County Deputy Executive Michael Duggan said

the displacement of airport wetlands will eventually benefit the county.

For every one acre of airport wetland the county destroys it will be responsible for creating one and a half acres somewhere else.

Further, the county plans to construct a 1,000-acre wildlife preserve to accompany the new wetlands.

"The wetland protection law was intended to protect wildlife," Duggan said, referring to the animals often attracted to wetland areas. "We have water on the grounds, but we don't have any animals living at the airport."

Duggan added the 15 acres under consideration now is the first of many wetlands that will be destroyed for the extensive airport expansion proposal. The $1 billion project includes a south access road, a new terminal and two new runways.

The county eventually will have to mitigate 400 to 500 acres of wetlands, Duggan said. County officials plan to submit a final application to the DNR in upcoming months requesting a permit to fill those acres.

Meanwhile, county officials recently have been investigating low lying sections of Wayne county for the new wetlands. County officials are discussing mitigation with one community, Duggan said, but he declined to specify where.

"Negotiations are under way to buy property," he said.

Duggan did say the county prefers to locate all of the mitigated wetlands in one community.

"We don't want to be running around all over the county looking for pockets of land," he said.

Sumpter Township Supervisor Marvin Vanotai said county officials have visited his community and Huron Township to inspect some of the low lying areas.

He said the county is only in "the looking stages."

Winning idea

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara presented a check recently for $2,500 to the winner of the County Employee Suggestion Program. Sandra O'Leary (above), department manager III at the Wayne County Youth Home, was selected for her recommendation which saved the county more than $70,000 in medical expenses. She established the Medical Expense Savings Account which was designed to identify and charge the appropriate party responsible for medical insurance costs which would have otherwise been billed to the county. Home sales off the 1989 pace

By JOHN AGGE
ANP Staff Writer

Existing home sales in the western Wayne and Oakland county area were up 25 percent in March compared to February of this year, but slightly off the 1989 record pace, according to the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors representatives.

Sales of existing single-family homes and condominiums in the area were 1,566 in March, with an average sale price of $77,500. More than 1,300 homes were sold in February at an average price of $79,000.

Douglas Courtney, president of Metro MLS, the board multiple listing service, said the home-selling market has been affected by higher-than-expected interest rates.

"The single-digit mortgage rates anticipated by most economists as an aid to spring sales have failed to materialize and this has had an effect on the market," Courtney said.

Mortgage interest rates for 30-year notes are currently approximately 10.5 percent. Rates had dipped to single-digits recently, but have shown an upward trend in recent months.

"Interest rates have risen a tad, but I think they will hold, and possibly drop, during the summer season," said Sherry Olds, broker at Coldwell Banker Bridge Realty in Belleville.

"At 10.5 percent, we'll still have a good summer. People can still qualify for mortgages."

Courtney said while rates may not drop, the increase in sales during the warm weather will drive home prices up.

To combat the increased interest rates, many mortgage lenders have instituted new concepts in financing homes.

"There is still strong competition among lenders and we are urging buyers to examine all their financing options," Courtney said. "There are some interesting new concepts being introduced that shorten the life of the mortgage and add a very significant savings in the total interest paid."

Olds mentioned adjustable rate mortgages (ARM) and seven-year balloon mortgages as alternative financing plans of which buyers are not aware.

First-time homebuyers might have a harder time financing their new home through the FHA MSHDA program, however. Administrators of the program, which gives first-time homebuyers an interest rate well below market rates, recently reduced the amount of income a buyer could earn to qualify for the loan rate. Families and individual buyers cannot earn more than $20,700 per year to qualify for the program.

Foot doctors unite for May

The May observance of Foot Health Month, an annual observance sponsored by the Michigan Podiatric Medical Association, has a new look for the '90s.

The special month is now marking a concerted effort by doctors of podiatric medicine to join with their colleagues in presenting a comprehensive consumer education program.

It is the first time podiatrists have united in this type of effort, according to the president of the local organization.

Brochures are now being made available in doctors' offices.

Local woman
assumes office

Carla O'Malley of Canton Township has been named senior vice president and chief operating officer for Annapolis Hospital in Wayne and the Westland Medical Center. The two hospitals are operated by Oakwood United Hospitals, Inc., a new subsidiary of Oakwood Health Services Corporation.

O'Malley, former chief operating officer of the Oakwood Downriver Medical Center, has been working within the Oakwood system since 1980. She has more than 16 years experience in the health care industry.

Condominium
opening marked

An area within the city bounded by Joy and Ford roads to the north and south and Wayne and Newburgh roads to the east and west, has become known as the Golden Corridor.

Many of the city retailers are located within this area. It has also become an attractive place to live. One of the newer developments is Hunter's Pointe Condominiums, which are located on Hunter Boulevard.

A grand opening celebration for the condominiums will be staged May 4 through 6.

Death rate of unborn

Double the amount of American casualties in all the wars the U.S. has been involved in and you still have not reached the amount of deaths of the unborn incurred through abortion legalized in 1973. Mind you, the babies had no weapons and no say in the matter. Consider, abortion is the sixth leading cause of maternal deaths in this country; two black babies are aborted for every three that are born; 98 percent of abortions are performed for social (convenient) reasons; less than 1 percent of abortions concern rape; parents, minors and the unborn's rights are being blatantly violated through Michigan's present abortion law, which has no safeguards such as parental consent.

Those persons supporting abortion are those who have been allowed the right to life and yet they would deny this same right to another. Pro-choice is no-choice any way you look at it. The only one who gains through abortion are those taking the money for "disservices" rendered.

It's a shame that so many have strayed from the moral precepts that this country was founded on—the right to life and liberty. It's pro-death rhetoric that should be aborted, not unborn babies.

Governor has no right

Where was Gov. Blanchard when our child woke in the middle of the night needing comfort and reassurance? Where was he when our babies needed their DPT shots? Where was he when they were first put on the school bus or took their first trip to the dentist? Where was he when two of our children were admitted to Children's Hospital in Detroit for operations? Where was he when our kids started driver's training? Where was he when they needed food and clothing? We didn't see him anywhere. He wasn't around loving our family, supporting us, comforting us or guiding our decisions.

And yet, this same governor is attempting to dictate to us in saying that we, as parents, do not have the right to be involved in our child's decision should she wish to obtain an abortion.

A question for Gov. Blanchard: Isn't it a little late in the date for you to try to insert your values (or lack of them), as the case clearly shows) into our family? Isn't it a little presumptuous of you to allegedly become a "surrogate parent" to our family? You bet it is!

It is not difficult to see that pro-abortion James Blanchard, the man, and Governor James Blanchard have found themselves at opposite ends. Pro-abortion James Blanchard the man seems to have usurped the gubernatorial edge in dictating policy to the people far more than Governor James Blanchard.

Unfortunately, I'm afraid this is going to become more and more apparent in many legislators also as time goes by. It's a very thin line these politicians are walking.

Regarding the April 19, 1990, Wayne Eagle article, "Group squares off to battle leaders", several thoughts occurred to me. There is another "group" which was only alluded to in the article, but which has considerable equity in the debate, the citizens of Wayne other than governmental or business persons. The article suggests that the debate is solely between city government, and some business persons.

I think that Mona Farmer is sadly missing the point if she thinks that she has been wronged because of her littering ticket. Its amazing to me that she even got one. I hope the ordinance officer who issued the ticket will focus on a few other areas behind, and in front of, other businesses in this town real soon. I don't care if it belongs to Ms. Farmer, Mr. Norton, or Joe Dokes.

I also resent Pat Norton's implication that us industrial workers have such a low focus on life's ambience that we willingly accept our alleged government's lack of concern for basic ordinance enforcement. This type of attitude only reinforces Ms. Farmer's lack of concern for our local environment.

On most days, the sight which greets anyone traveling Michigan Avenue westbound through the Wayne business district is one of dirty, littered sidewalks and gutters. We are treated to dirty ragged American flags used by "prominent" businesses presumably as a decoration, cracked and upheaved sidewalks, and surly impolite help inside some of the businesses throughout the city. I question whether there is some correlation between all this, and the vacant windowed ex-businesses one encounters throughout the city?

A few months ago, we received our annual notice of property tax assessment increase. I questioned then, and I question now the justification for increases due to the trashy appearance of Wayne. I certainly won't recover all of that increase when I sell and move out of Wayne.

The editorial cartoon that you ran in that edition should have included a bludgeoned citizen in between the two characters already depicted. Please keep us accurately informed of further shenanigans between these two groups.

Watch where you walk

I'm hoping my letter will be published as public notice to Westland citizens. I walk and bicycle a lot in our city and every time I go out I find broken glass in our parks, playgrounds and on public sidewalks. I realize that this glass is mostly left behind by reckless juveniles and not homeowners, but why has no one taken responsibility to clean up the glass on sidewalks in front or beside their houses. Where is our pride in our homes, our city? These are not the ghettos. It only takes a couple of minutes.

Some may say why clean it up when they're just going to do it again. Well if none of us speaks up, cleans up, takes action "They" are going to know we don't care what they do to our property, our parks, our playgrounds. There is nothing worse than to discover a new addition to your park such as a sandbox only to find three or four broken bottles in it. What a loss of tax money to purchase new equipment and then see it sit unused because of broken glass.

Please do something if you see this happening, speak up, call the City of Westland Department of Public Service. If you take the time to care, to speak up. You will be pleased to see that it matters our department of public works is paid to serve us. Call them, tell them what needs to be done.

Call and report vandalism. If we report this and the city does more to drive by problem areas at prime times of vandalism to stop and make vandals clean up if possible. Take pride clean up our city before some poor child is hurt badly and the City of Westland is being sued for neglecting to clean up its public parks play grounds or walk ways.

Walkout applauded

This is a letter of congratulations. Congratulations are extended to those students of the Wayne-Westland school district. We must remember our shortcomings and faults when mapping out our responsibilities and our goals for the future—the future being the students of today, for if we don't learn from the past we, as a community are destined to live through the same mistakes. When examining what these students did recently (walkout), we must look at the "bigger picture." What we have is a group of students that showed enough initiative and courage to stand up for students in the entire district in protest of an unjust budgetary decision.

We, as a people are beginning a new decade and stand on the threshold of what is soon to be the turn of a new century. The world is changing and with this change comes the challenges of advancing technology, that we must either face or fall victim to.

It is my opinion that this is not a time to cut programs or the quality of education, rather, it is a time to enhance those existing programs and create new innovative programs in order to give our youth a competitive edge over all others, for only investing in the educational process of today's students, will we, as individuals, as a community, or as a nation be able, or equipped to deal with the vast technological challenges of this decade and the rapidly approaching twenty-first century.

I realize that there is a horrendous financial dilemma facing the district, but I believe that the burden can be alleviated by exercising reason and making some hard budgetary decisions. However the burden should not fall on the students nor the taxpayers through cutting programs or by asking for a millage increase respectively.

I hope, from this day forward, we take heed to what these students made a stance for, and understanding that a good sound education is the most powerful weapon in combatting unemployment, illiteracy and all other fiscal and social ills, and perhaps most importantly, being competitive in world markets, so we, as Americans of the future can continue the path that all our forefathers have begun and are depending on today's youth to continue - that being to create a sound prosperous future and letting evolve the best America ever.

The best days are ahead, drive safely

Senior proms, graduation parties, summer class picnics and backyard barbecues. These are the things of which summer are made.

Alcohol, however, will ruin many parties this year. Drunken drivers continue to be a major cause of automobile accidents and traffic fatalities. Each year hundreds of deaths can be attributed to the abuse of alcohol.

Young people are especially vulnerable. It remains a fact of life that alcohol is accessible to teens, and that it is a very real attraction for students celebrating their summer freedom. For high school seniors, alcohol may seem a rite of passage into adulthood.

It is important therefore that the word be conveyed, and that young people understand, the deadly nature of alcohol.

Student groups such as Students Against Driving Drunk are perhaps the best weapon we have in the fight against drinking and driving.

Peers spread the word effectively that the two are a dangerous combination, and that if you do drink, don't drive. Bumper stickers, posters and T-shirts are making young people more aware of the problem.

Wayne Memorial High School students took a huge step last year when they initiated a taxi service for students on the weekend. The message was very clear - if you do end up drinking or the individual who drove you is drinking, call and ask for a ride, no questions asked.

The idea of teens standing up for and protecting their classmates is a good one, but peers cannot be left on their own to solve the problem. The message must be reinforced in the home.

Lead by example parents, don't ever get behind the wheel after drinking, rather call a taxi or select a designated driver who agrees not to drink alcohol.

Parents who preach the dangers of alcohol to their children, but don't heed their own warning, are not good teachers.

We must all take whatever steps are necessary to stop the drunken drivers of the world. We must do so to save them and ourselves from senseless death.

Now is the time to hear the message - before it's too late.

Clinic opening is a landmark

In a small corner of Romulus Senior High School, a teen health center was opened this week.

The small space was the source of major controversy during the two years of study and planning which eventually led to opening day.

The center will provide young residents of Romulus with an outlet for their health-care needs, and questions about health.

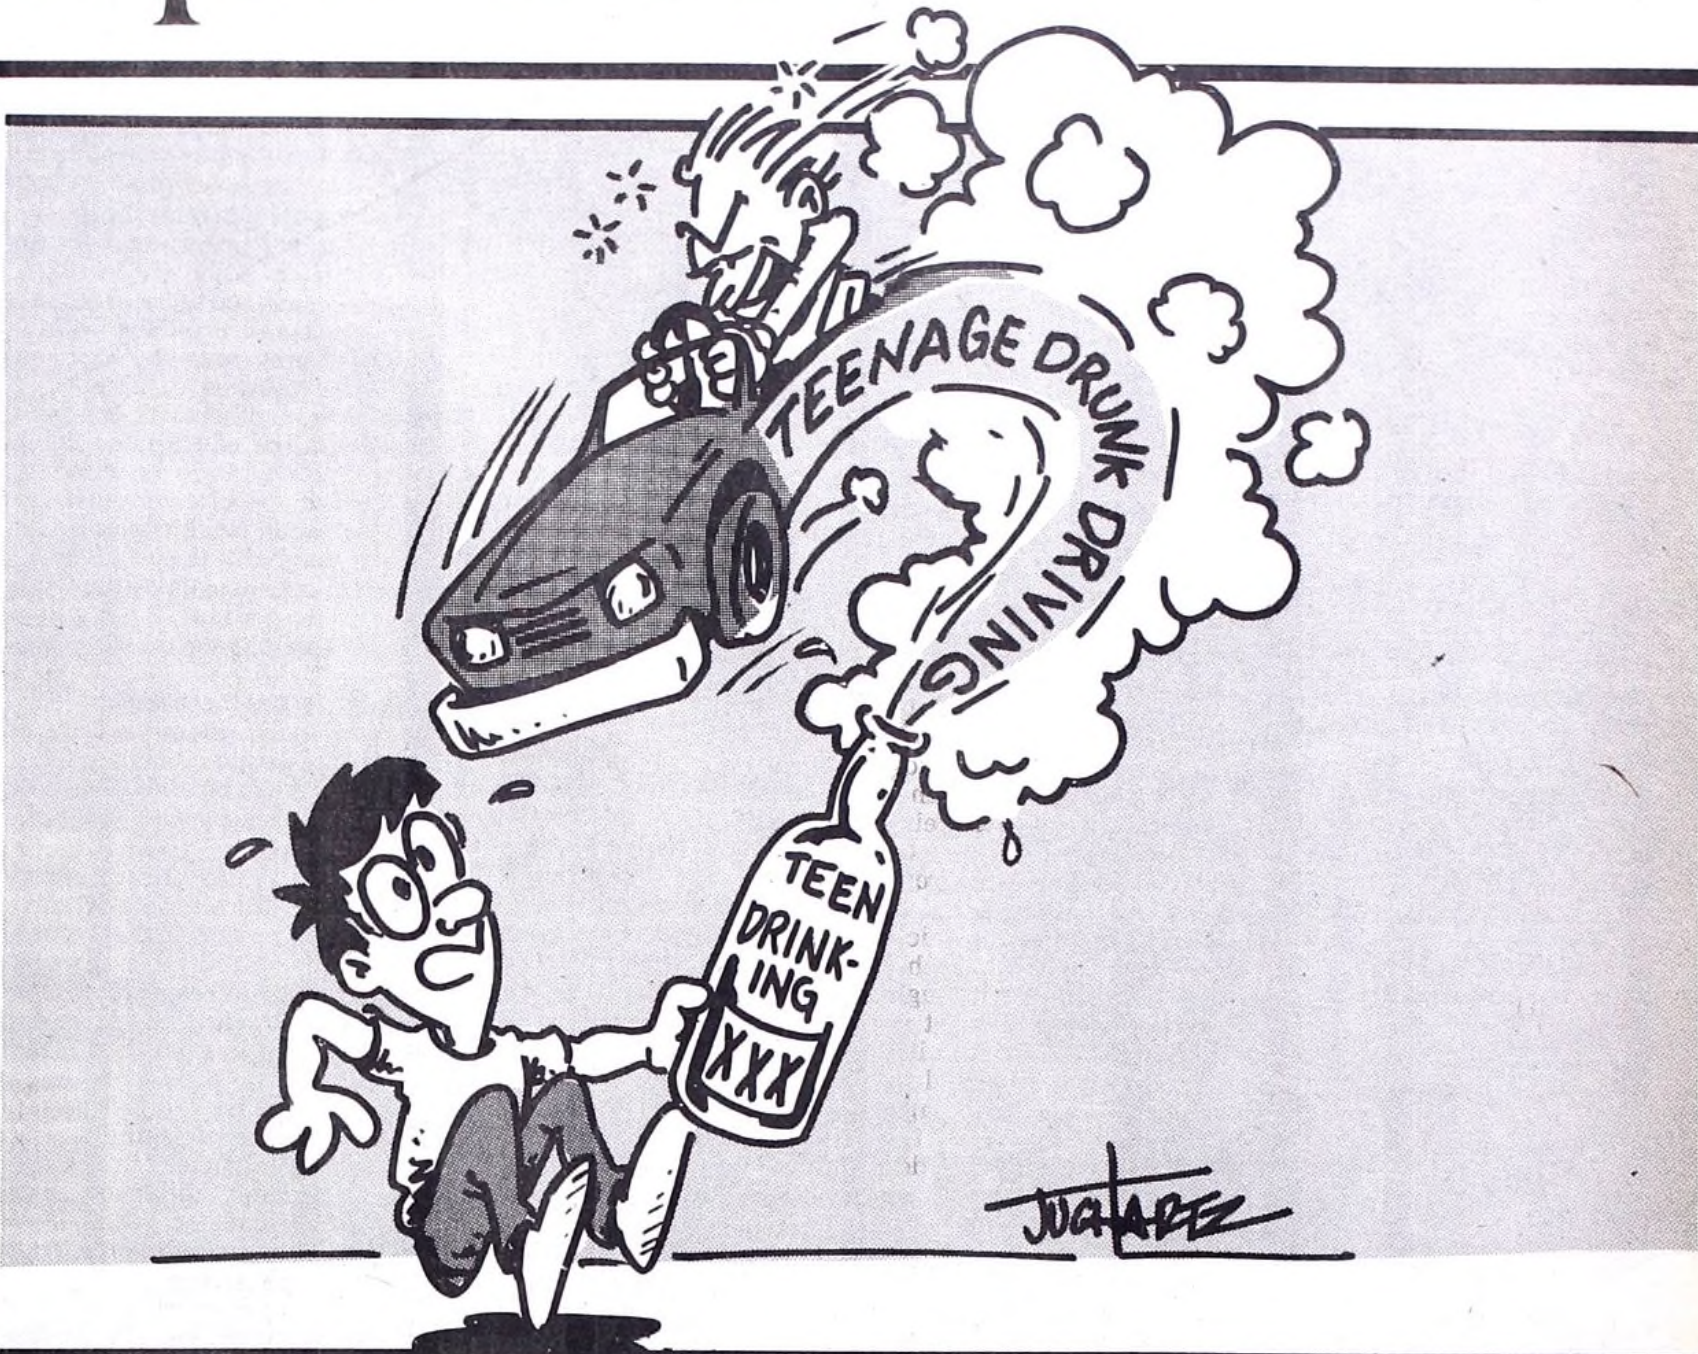

The center, according to studies, is needed in Romulus. It is being funded through the department of education and will offer health screenings, athletic physicals, mental health counseling and information about nutrition and sexually transmitted diseases.

Perhaps the most sensitive matter to be handled by the clinic personnel is pregnancy testing, prenatal counseling and birth-control counseling. This is the realm of care which has most critics steaming mad.

This, however, is perhaps the most-needed service provided by the center. The center will offer teens an alternative for discussing such matters. Many are too frightened or embarrassed to talk with their parents, and they are often given misinformation by their peers.

It is good that they now have someplace to turn. A place with caring individuals who can present basic facts without giving prescriptions or referrals.

We congratulate Romulus school officials for having the courage and insight to fight the critics.

Lunching with a legend

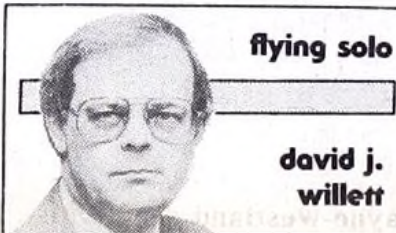

Edgar Allan Poe is a familiar name to most Americans, but few can say they have had lunch with the man himself. A recent trip to Washington, D.C. afforded me this very special honor.

So as not to mislead, let me clarify that the 84-year-old Edgar A. Poe is not the author of the twisted tales one often views on old movie channels starring Vincent Price. This very special man is, however, also an author of some renown.

Our luncheon engagement was prompted by my fascination with genealogy. For some years now, in pursuit of my genealogical studies, I have been pursuing information about one George Miller, a third cousin by marriage.

Mr. Miller particularly piqued my interest when I spotted him in the family tree, as he was also in the newspaper business. He began his career, I learned, in 1881 while still a student at Adrian College, as an out-state correspondent for the Detroit News. Later he was hired as a reporter and soon moved to Washington, D.C. where he rapidly became the bureau chief. It was during this time in his career that George Miller became a member of the prestigious and elite Gridiron Club. He later became the editor of The Detroit News and a contemporary of Theodore Roosevelt.

For years, I have heard about this club where membership once was limited to only 50. My luncheon companion, Ed Poe, was elected president of this group in 1971. And it was not until our meeting that I really understood the importance and prestige of this club. Poe is now the oldest active member of the Gridiron Club which has hosted more U.S. Presidents since its founding in 1885 than any other press group.

To belong to the Gridiron Club, there must be an opening among the members, which occurs only upon their death or their removal from the Washington, D.C. news scene. To be a member, one must be an active participant in news-gathering and reporting in our capital. There is always a long waiting list of applicants for the honor of joining the Gridiron Club and usually, candidates wait several years for membership.

Guests at a recent function included the President and Barbara Bush, the U.S. Attorney General, the director of the FBI, the secretary of defense, the speaker of the House of Representatives...well, you get the idea. If the Gridiron Club invites you, you go.

To be lunching with the venerable Ed Poe, now historian of this group, was more of an honor than I knew when the date was made through the National Newspaper Association office. I began to realize what a celebrity he was as we began to discuss my distant relative and Poe began to share some of his personal experiences during his journalism career.

I had lunch with a man who witnessed the burial of the dead following the dropping of the bomb on Hiroshima. "We stayed in a little temporary shack," he told me. "The stench was unbelievable. It was, in my mind, the worst nightmare mankind has ever seen. The city was melted," he recalled.

Here was a man who was present during the signing of the Japanese surrender on the deck of the battleship Missouri. "It was a Sunday morning and there were about 3,000 people on board," he said. "They raised the flag as the band played. It truly was a spiritual moment. It was quite a ceremony. The Japanese signed on the wrong line and we had to wait while the documents were corrected," he told me with a faraway look.

Poe agreed that today, things are very different in the coverage of world events and in the Washington scene. His home, across the Potomac in Arlington, Va. is "high on a ridge" and formerly offered him a view of the capitol dome. Now, he said, the view is clogged with buildings.

Like my distant relative, Poe came to Washington when television crews were still a thing of the future, and the domination of the news belonged with newspapers. Having witnessed a recent presidential press conference, I can vouch for the presence of the video media. The brigade of electronic equipment and assorted appliances fills the press room.

Following our luncheon, Ed sent me some columns he had written and a recent seating chart from a Gridiron Club function. There, among people like the President and his wife, the heads of state departments, Katherine Graham of the Washington Post, Allen Hueharth of Gannett, Randolph A. Hearst and William R. Hearst III of newspaper fame, I found the Edgar A. Poe, at the head of one of the most prominent and visible tables.

I had lunch with a legend, and I am not likely to ever forget his anecdotes and his tales from the front as he recalled moments in history. He is a living example of the purpose newspapers and newspaper reporters and editors serve.

I went seeking a distant relative and I found a new old friend. Somehow, I know this business is richer and better for a man of his talent and distinction. I came away suspecting that my relative, George Miller, was very much like this man of dignity and substance. Anyway, I hope so.

Just the thought makes me very proud.

A first for Eagles

Tank pitches Romulus to a sweep of Ann Arbor Huron

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

First-year baseball Coach Don Foley and the Eagles of Romulus have assured themselves a niche in the high school athletic history books as they swept a doubleheader from league rival Ann Arbor Huron.

It was the first time since the Eagles had entered the South Central Conference four years ago that a Romulus baseball team has won a twin-bill from a SCC opponent.

A pleased Foley noted that his "team is starting to focus on things that have to be accomplished in order for us to be successful."

Eddie Tank, who faced only 23 batters, got the Eagles off on the right track as he humbled the River Rats in the opener, 5-1. He struck out eight and didn't allow a walk in Romulus' first win ever over Huron.

The team is starting to focus on things that have to be done in order to become successful.

— Don Foley
Romulus baseball coach

Tank's teammates supported their junior hurler with nine hits. They broke a three-inning scoreless deadlock by getting to loser Karl Fisher for three runs in the fourth inning. In that inning, singles by Ed King, Tank, and Steve Honeycutt loaded the bases. Then Fisher issued a walk to sophomore Tim Dufore, forcing in the first run.

That brought Mike Bergeron to the plate, and he drilled a two-run single.

Tank's bid for a shutout was ruined in the bottom of the fourth when Chris White hammered a solo blast.

In the fifth, the Eagles added their final two runs as Tank and Honeycutt were safe on errors. Dufore and Bergeron's ground-outs opened the door for the tallies.

In the nightcap, King, a southpaw senior, twirled a two-hitter in a 10-0 pasting of the River Rats. He fanned four and walked three for win.

Romulus erupted for four runs in the opening inning, added two each in the sixth and seventh frames and posted single runs in the third and fourth.

Ken Blevins led an eight-hit Romulus assault as he laced a solo homer over the leftfield fence, the ball traveling 34-feet before it came to rest. Rob Hoth accounted for two hits, including a double, single and two runs batted in; Mark Harden, a sophomore, also had

Tigers turn back Trenton

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Sweeping all 16 events, Belleville dominated Trenton, 112-25, in a Wolverine 'A' Conference men's track & field meet on Thursday.

It was the second straight dual meet conference victory for Coach Dave Medley and the Tigers.

In the meantime, the Belleville women's team failed to find the winning column after two straight meets. The Tigers were left on the short end of an 81-47 score against Trenton. They were edged 58-56 in the season opener with Lincoln Park.

Belleville had three double-event winners in their sweep over the Trojans of Trenton.

Senior Brian Gulliver won the discus and the shot put events with tosses of 143 feet, 2 inches and 49 feet, 2 inches; Andrew Edwards was clocked in the winning times for the 100 (10.4) and the 220 (23.3) yard dashes, and Marty O'Sullivan ruled the 120-yard high (16.1) and the 330-yard low (43.2) hurdles.

Jeff Komaromi leaped 18 feet, 4 1/2 inches and Lee Bradford cleared 5 feet, 10 inches for Tigers victories in the long and high jump, respectively.

Belleville fielded the winning 2-mile relay with Rob Priebe, Pete Laframboise, Gary distant third from invitational winner Plymouth Canton (118), which beat out its school district rival, Salem (109) for top honors.

The Tigers of Belleville were third (45). Rounding out the final standings, in order, were Livonia Churchill (37), Wyandotte (32), Inkster (22), Garden City (21), and Taylor Truman (8).

Belleville had one winner in each division. Andre Edwards took a first for the hosts in the 100-yard dash (10.2), while freshman Ann Gray represented the hosts in the winner's circle in the women's division.

Gray covered the mile in 5:41 for her gold medal.

Tigers salvage 2 at relays

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville was the 'perfect host' during their annual track & field relays staged on Saturday on the high school field. The Tigers failed to win a relay but salvaged two individual gold medals.

Belleville was sandwiched in the middle of the deck for the seven-team men's division, finishing fifth (64 points) behind Livonia Churchill (86). Plymouth-Salem was second (84), followed by Taylor Truman (79), Plymouth Canton (69), Inkster (11) and Garden City (9).

By TOM MOORADIAN

When the Vikings of Inkster decide to win, they do it big.

Last week, Coach Jerome Orr watched as his team clubbed helpless Highland Park 28-8 for their first Suburban Athletic Conference victory of the year.

The Viking victory came in wake of a pair of losses to pre-season SAC title favorite, Willow Run, which spoiled Inkster's season opener 12-1, and 10-0.

Inkster is off to a 2-3 league and 2-4 overall start for the 1990 campaign.

Orr may be critical of his team's defense, but not at the effort put forth by his players.

"We have a lot of freshmen who are going to help us," said the sophomore Inkster coach. "We're going to be improved, but right now our defense is questionable."

Inkster also split a doubleheader with Ecorse, losing the opener 7-5, then reversing the same score to win the nightcap. The Vikings also came out on the short end of a 14-3 decision with Ypsilanti Lincoln.

In the opening-day loss to the Flyers, Wesley Lawrence lasted 4 2/3 innings, gave up 10 runs but struck out 11 in taking the loss. The defense collapsed in the second game as Inkster committed five errors. Maurice Bell was routed in the first inning when the Flyers scored six runs.

In their 17-hit barrage against the Parkers, Tyron Orr went four-for-five, including a double and four runs batted in. Anthony Ward chipped in three hits in as many trips; Lawrence, who wound up as the winning pitcher, latched on to a triple and had three hits for five trips, while freshman Mongo Purdue strung together four singles in five appearances at the plate.

The Vikings also received three hits from Johnny Adams and Eric Ivory had a two-run triple.

Orr lasted two innings in Inkster's setback at Ypsi Lincoln. Adams took over and finished up. Rochelle McMillan and Orr each collected run-scoring doubles while Malik Purdue chipped in with an RBI single.

The Vikings wasted two hits each from Adams, Orr, and Reeves in their 7-5 defeat in the first game against Ecorse as Bell was charged with the loss.

Frustrated Chiefs woo victory, are rejected

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After a frustrating week in the league, New Boston Huron's bats erupted and the Chiefs jumped on Big Rapids 14-4 on Saturday in the consolation game of the Tecumseh Baseball Invitational.

Coach Bill Spiecker and the Chiefs had wooed Huron Conference victories during the week but were rejected as they lost an 8-3 decision to Carlson and stumbled over Grosse Ile, 7-5. They managed to earn a 5-3 victory over Monroe Jefferson.

Huron began the week reviewing a 2-4 overall and a 1-4 conference record.

"For the week, I thought the kids played well," said Spiecker, who is in his second year as head coach. "What hurts is that we let a couple of big victories slip by us."

Huron didn't allow Big Rapids to get away, however. Junior righthander Ron Nowitzke cashed in on 12 strikeouts, gave up three hits and walked six in earning his first varsity victory. He received ample hitting support. The Chiefs collected 12 off of a pair of Big Rapids pitchers.

Centerfielder Bill Worley paced the winners' assault as he connected for a solo homer with one of his three hits. Matt Spiecker, who scored twice, chipped in a single and triple, while Matt Hamilton and Eric Eastridge had two hits. Eastridge had a double and three RBI.

In the tournament opener, host Tecumseh held on for a 4-2 victory over the Chiefs. Spiecker went the distance, walked seven, fanned two and gave up five hits in taking his second loss of the year.

Righthander Matt Conrad got the win. He was in trouble in the fifth when he gave up the two runs as Jason Martinez doubled with two away, then Chris Good worked Conrad for a homer. The ball sailed into right-centerfield.

Tecumseh scored twice in the opening frame and put what proved to be the winning run on the scoreboard in the third inning. They got an insurance run in the bottom of the sixth.

Huron appeared well on its way to a victory over Carlson when Carlson exploded for six runs

Bertz blasts defense

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After the Tiger defense bobbled the ball an incredible 19 times in four games, Belleville baseball Coach John Bertz is wondering what he has to do to get his players to hang on to the ball.

Belleville committed 11 errors in its 14-7 setback at the hands of Monroe in a Wolverine 'A' comedy of errors contest to start off last week. It didn't get any better for the Tigers as the week progressed.

"The first three Monroe batters got on base because of our ineptness," moaned Bertz, whose club is struggling with a 1-2-1 record. The defending conference champs were also shut out 3-0 by Southgate Anderson, which capitalized on a pair of Tiger miscues.

And, on Saturday, Belleville, managed to blow a 6-0 lead and allowed South Lyon to come back and tie, 9-9, at the Rawlings Baseball Invitational, sponsored by Ann Arbor Huron.

Belleville is scheduled to play nine games in the span of six days, and the defense must recover from its shellshock if the team is to remain respectable in the stretch, Bertz noted.

"We have a grueling week ahead of us," Bertz said. "If we can pull ourselves together, we will be all-right."

On Monday, the Tigers had to contend with title-minded Wayne Memorial. They clashed with neighboring Ypsilanti on Tuesday, played Wyandotte on Wednesday before coming home today to host league rival Lincoln Park and Livonia Franklin on Friday.

Belleville ends the week with a return trip to the invitational.

Southgate's Ron Patterson scattered five Tiger hits in his 3-0 shutout. He whiffed seven and walked one for the victory.

Loser Mike Coleman was tagged for seven hits, while he struck out eight and also walked one.

In a game, abbreviated by the mercy rule, Belleville crushed Ypsilanti Lincoln 8-0 as junior righthander Jason Henderson picked up the victory. It was his first start of the season. Henderson notched nine strikeouts and walked one.

The Tigers supported their young pitcher with 10 hits with Jeremy Ison, Vince Sacco, Coleman and Todd Yocum each checking in with two.

Belleville exploded for six runs in the first inning but failed to hang on as South Lyon battled back and tied the game at 9-all. Kevin Trumbull started on the mound for the Tigers and worked the first 2 2/3 innings. Yocum and Ison also saw action.

Ison accounted for three of Belleville's eight hits and Eric Holshoe came through with a pair of singles.

Vikings bounce back to even record

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After splitting a twin-bill with Ecorse, the Inkster girls' softball team managed to bounce back and even their season record at 2-2.

Coach John Carlson and his Vikings lost a 24-23 slugfest to the Red Raiders of Ecorse in the first game, but they came back to crush their Suburban Athletic Conference foes, 13-5, to salvage the split.

In the opener, losing pitcher Jean Braswell failed to get the support from the defense, which committed 11 errors. She was tagged for 13 earned runs, while she gave up 12 walks in her 6 2/3 innings on the mound.

Ecorse rallied for four runs in the bottom of the seventh to erase a 23-20 Inkster advantage. The Vikings also wasted Braswell's three-of-five performance at the plate.

Jean's sister, Salena, got aboard five times - four on walks and a base hit. Salena also scored five times. Teammate Alexis Watson chased home five runs with her two hits in a two-for-five plate effort.

Braswell also handled the pitching chores in the second game, and came off the mound a winner. She fanned five and walked two in her first victory of the season.

Watson and Tequan Abney led the assault on losing pitcher Diane Melser, who gave up 11 hits. Watson drove in three runs with her three hits, including a triple. Abney carded a double and triple for her three official times at the plate.

In other action, Watson homered, her first of the season, but Ypsilanti Lincoln overpowered the Vikings and pitcher Koryn Stallworth 23-2 in a non-league game.

Inkster struck for five runs in the first inning and tilted the scoreboard for six more in the sixth en route to a 16-8 victory over the Redskins of Oak Park. Braswell earned her second decision on a five-hitter. She struck out five and walked three.

Abney wielded the hot bat as she collected five hits and accounted for five RBIs. She also drilled a three-run homer in the sixth and tripled in the seventh. Watson strung together four singles and four RBI and Tawana Green had a perfect day, finishing with four hits, including a double.

For the season, Watson leads the Viking battery with a .625 batting average and 13 runs batted in; Abney has seven for 12 for a .583 average while Braswell has scored 11 runs.

It's a key week for Carlson's Vikings, who have to entertain SAC title favorite, Willow Run.

in the fifth to send loser Frank Delano to the showers.

The Chiefs blew a 2-1 first inning lead as Worley belted his first homer of the season with Hamilton aboard, who had singled. Hamilton finished with two hits.

On Wednesday, Huron stopped Monroe Jefferson behind Spiecker's five-hit pitching performance. In his inaugural win, the Huron hurler whiffed five and walked one. Spiecker needed help from Hamilton, who got the last two outs of the game.

The Chiefs tallied three times in the third with two away as Nowitzke walked, moved to third on a misfired pickoff attempt, and scored when Good singled. Spiecker then was safe on an error, and Hamilton came through by lacing a Jim Swope curveball for a three bagger into straight-away center.

However, the Chiefs fell to the Islanders 7-5 as Nowitzke suffered the loss. Grosse Ile helped keep the Chiefs in the game - winning pitcher Bill Lowrey issued 11 walks. He gave up one hit, however.

had a pair of hits, including a double and two RBIs while Tank chipped in a two-run single.

Foley and Romulus entered the week with a 4-4 overall and a 2-2 SCC record, and the Eagle coach views this week "as a week that can either break or make us."

The Eagles have two doubleheaders with league rivals on the schedule. They were at home to Adrian on Tuesday and on the road this afternoon, at Ypsilanti High. On Saturday, Romulus takes on Taylor Kennedy, a strong non-league opponent.

Romulus also defeated Dearborn Heights Robichaud, 6-3, and dropped a 7-6 thriller to Ann Arbor Pioneer last week.

Tank notched 11 strikeouts, walked four and allowed four hits in the Eagles victory over Robichaud. He helped his own cause with three hits, including a double and two RBI. Blevins and Bergeron also checked in with a pair of hits each.

Mike Orsette was charged with the loss. He lasted 2 2/3 innings. Paul Brannon and Derrick Vires, who had a two-run single, led the Bulldogs' hitting assault.

The Eagles rallied in the last of the seventh as Tom Patterson was safe on a two-base error, and was singled home by King. With no one out, Pioneer reliever Sean Kenny snuffed out the rally as he strung together a pair of groundouts and struck out the final batter.

King remained hot at the plate as he laced three hits, including a double, and drove in two runs; Patterson had a pair of hits, while Honeycutt came up with his first homer of the season, a blast that cleared the leftfield fence.

Honeycutt digested the loss, however. He lasted 2 2/3 innings, gave up six runs, walked four and gave up five of the nine Pioneer hits.

Ford supplier nets recognition for Escort involvement

The new 1991 Ford Escort officially became available to the general public April 26, with the first shipments arriving in dealer showrooms.

But before the Escort rolled into the dealerships, it rolled on a 37-city, 31-day, 4,300-mile tour of selected plants of Ford Motor Co. suppliers.

Employees of Molmec, Inc. Airflow Products Division in Van Buren Township were among the first to see the all-new Ford product when the 1991 Escort Caravan visited their plant April 23.

The caravan to supplier facilities is part of the Ford plan to involve employees and suppliers early in the design and development of new products such as the Escort.

"Our suppliers' employees are extremely important members of the Escort team," said Rick Roth, product development representative of Ford Motor Co. "We came to Belleville to personally thank them for their contribution in making these high-quality automobiles, which are as much a part of their labor as they are ours."

Molmec produces a radiator cooling module used in the new Escort and Tracer models.

"We feel we have the the best available design technology to produce electric motor-driven, fan-cooling units for the automotive industry," said Molmec General Manager Gorman Fisher. "The recent expansion at our facility was in part needed to produce these Escort parts."

A world-class entry in the basic small car segment, the Escort is one of the best-selling cars in the history of the automobile industry.

The car is produced from

sheet metal to finished product in two locations—the Hermosillo (Mexico) Plant and the Wayne Assembly Plant. The Wayne plant recently opened a $600-million integral stamping plant to facilitate the assembly process of the Escort.

When Ford designers were asked to begin work for the replacement to the Escort, they knew certain parameters were fixed.

"We agreed that the design should not be too revolutionary from the very successful current Escort," Fritz Mayhew, chief design executive, said.

The new Escort program called for a joint production project with Mazda for the platform and chassis, and for Ford to be responsible for the interior and exterior styling. The goal was to produce a modern-looking, exciting, fun-to-drive car.

"It was obvious we couldn't—and shouldn't—abandon the aero look," Mayhew said. "Instead, we moved to the next generation, which resulted in a more sophisticated surface development of the smooth, clean aero appearance."

While the design of the new Ford Escort was challenging to the imagination, the various regulations in different countries was an effort of logistics.

"Meeting regulations of different countries where the Escort will be sold, while keeping common sheet metal, truly was a challenge," Mayhew said. "With great cooperation from Mazda engineering we adjusted elements such as lights to fit local regulations. We hadn't realized the tremendous global variations in license plate size, for example, until we got into this program."

Some countries, many in the Asia-Pacific region, redesigned the car bumper and interior appointments. Car interiors in these regions are expected to be more luxurious than offered by Ford.

"This program represents a global design effort in all aspects," said Mayhew.

Date changed for auto show

Planners of the North American International Auto Show, which drew record crowds, media and automobile manufacturers to the Cobo Convention this past January, have pushed back the date of the show opening by one week for next year.

The show will be open to the public in 1991 from Jan. 12 to 20. The show this year ran from Jan. 6 to 13.

"Various major auto manufacturers have asked us to make this change," said Robert Thibodeau, co-chairman of the event.

Thibodeau cited the holiday season and the need for more travel time for foreign journalists covering the show.

The North American International Auto Show in Detroit is fast becoming one of the most prestigious in the world, ranking in stature with the shows in Tokyo, Japan; Hamburg, Germany and Los Angeles.

THE FIRST PART OF THE BODY THAT MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY AFFECTS.

It's hard to smile when you lose the ability to walk. To play. To draw pictures. To climb a tree. But that's what happens when a child has muscular dystrophy. "Muscular dystrophy" is the name for a group of diseases that weaken and destroy the muscles. The disorders are progressive, so things get worse over time. The muscle loss can't be stopped. And it can't be reversed.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association is striving to cure muscular dystrophy. And on Christmas Eve of 1987, MDA researchers announced a landmark advance: discovery of the cause of the most terrible form of muscular dystrophy, Duchenne.

Now a giant step toward curing these dread diseases has been taken. And MDA researchers are forging ahead, racing to save the children stricken today.

MDA receives no government grants or fees for services — its work is funded entirely by private donations. You can help MDA fight muscular dystrophy and dozens of other muscle diseases by sending a tax-deductible contribution today.

Don't wait until a child's smile reminds you of all the children who have stopped smiling. Please send your donation today.

Weight Loss Pill 'Baffles' Scientists

WASHINGTON - Scientists are baffled by a new weight loss formula that causes people to lose weight even though they don't change the way they normally eat.

Studies published in respected scientific journals such as The British Journal of Nutrition say that cyamopsis tetragonolobus, an ingredient often used to thicken ice cream, can cause permanent weight loss without dieting or exercise. Although several explanations for the weight loss are suggested, the most likely according to scientists is that the ingredient seems to "trap" high calorie fat particles, decreasing their absorption in the intestines.

Scientists at National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the research and development of nutritional solutions to world-wide health problems, have successfully isolated and incorporated cyamopsis tetra gonolobus into an improved formula that greatly enhances the potential for weight loss over the ingredient alone. Called Food Source One, the revolutionary new formula provides a three-way scientifically designed process to help prevent calorie absorption.

The mechanism by which Food Source One works to decrease body weight is a complicated process called nutri-bonding. When chewed and swallowed immediately before meals, high calorie fats are replaced with lower calorie nutrients, thereby providing optimum nutrition and a minimum number of fat calories as explained in an instruction sheet that accompanies the tablets. The instruction sheet should be followed for optimum results.

Food Source One is unlike any other product on the market and is available immediately because it is not a drug and only contains natural ingredients already known to be safe. Physicians and pharmacists are praising Food Source One as a natural, drug free alternative for the treatment of obesity.

Available in chocolate, vanilla or strawberry. A 100 tablet supply only $24.98.

Food

Every parent knows

Just Desserts

Sue Willett

It took one sentence from my soon-to-be-married, 22-year-old son to send me back to a former life.

One sentence. If there was ever any doubt in my mind about the existence of a previous life, or the fact that when you are a parent, certain things remain constant, it was eradicated when he uttered this now infamous phrase. What he said was, "OK, so you'll be here at 2:30 and you'll bring dessert, right?"

That was all it took to warp me back in time to his kindergarten years when he would announce he needed cupcakes or cookies for his entire class the morning of the day he needed them. I vividly recalled the trauma of his second-grade plan to drive me insane when he phoned me at work from school to announce that he had volunteered me to make all the refreshments for the class play — and where were they because his teacher was waiting. Do I need add that this was the first such notification ever to fall from his gap-toothed little head?

I thought not. Is there a parent who lives and breathes whose precious little one hasn't pulled this one on them? And just when you think it's safe, just when you begin to believe that you can relax, pow...they get you again.

There I was, at midnight, staggering around the kitchen attempting to find a recipe for a dessert to serve the 50 relatives of his fiancée the next afternoon, feeling exactly like a mom again. Actually, this might have been quite an opportunity for me to impress these soon-to-be in-laws with the level of my skill in the kitchen, but anything I do after 10 p.m. suffers from a serious lack of concentration or effort on my part, usually because I am unconscious. Should I remain awake until the 11 o'clock news, my spouse is sure that his watch is broken. I don't do late night. For anybody.

Actually, my dear husband did attempt to help me, if only to keep my moans of desperation and agony from waking the neighbors. I think that the throwing of cookbooks off the shelf and at the wall in frustration might also have indicated to him that I was less than happy in this situation. That, or he was concerned that the rumor about me becoming the 'Tourettes' Syndrome poster child was about to become fact, based on my language.

And yes, I'm well aware that any psychologically healthy person would have explained to the prodigal son that the consequences of his failure to inform me of this obligation earlier now made dessert his responsibility. Sure, I know that any normal person would have told him to find a bakery open on Sunday and buy a cake or two for this occasion. But no parent can claim to be psychologically healthy when it comes to their offspring and no parent since time began is normal. Parenthood and normality are diametrically opposite terms. Ask anybody whose been either one.

At any rate, I did find some recipes which might come in handy when a quick dessert is made necessary. I didn't use any of them, however. My husband went to Poppin' Fresh and bought French Silk pies.

They loved 'em, but they can't figure out where I find the time to work and bake like that, too. I'm going to like this family.

Local couple abandons meat for healthier lifestyle

By FLORENCE WEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Renee Allen gave up meat five years ago out of compassion for animals. Her husband, Michael, made the same choice three years ago for health reasons.

Today, neither of the Allens seem to feel they have denied themselves anything. They educated themselves and mastered the complexities of vegetarian cooking.

"You can take any recipe from any book and make it vegetarian," Michael said.

The key, he said, is knowledge. Michael and Renee have gone through an endless stream of books to learn how to create a meat-free diet. Starting with red meat, they eventually eliminated fish, poultry, milk products and eggs from their menu.

Michael, who has worked as a cook, said making the switch was easy. Renee, who works at Zerbo's Health Food Market in Livonia, had access to information about vegetarianism.

Never give up meat without learning how to replace what it offers, Renee warned.

"It takes a lot of books. You can't be a healthy vegetarian without learning."

Meat and meat products provide three essential nutrients to the body — protein, B-12 and iron.

Protein and iron can be replaced through other food sources. B-12, however, must be supplemented through vitamins, Renee said.

Because she is pregnant, Renee is now placing special emphasis on protein. Most women need 52 grams of protein a day, she said. But a pregnant woman needs 72 grams, and a lactating woman needs 100 grams.

The simplest way to "make protein" is with food combinations, Michael said. Three food groups can be combined to form complete protein — nuts and seeds, whole grains, and beans.

For breakfast then, Renee and Michael might eat a protein shake and oatmeal.

"Oatmeal is really a good, basic breakfast," Renee said.

To replace the traditional bacon and eggs, Renee and Michael might eat scrambled Tofu (a soy product) and a bacon substitute made of textured vegetable protein.

The names are not necessarily appealing, but Michael and Renee insist the final product tastes remarkably like the real thing.

TVP, in fact, can be used to replace nearly any meat dish — hot dogs, luncheon meat, ground beef for recipes. Sometimes, Renee said, the flavor is a little too close to meat for her.

Another option is a grain hamburger, popular with the couple for lunch. They said their favorite meal is falafel, a dish from the Middle East.

Tofu swiss steaks are on the menu for supper. Tofu and another soy product, Tempeh, also make good meat substitutes, Renee said.

"You can eat just about anything."

Vegetarian substitutes can be used just as easily for baking. Most health food stores carry the necessary ingredients and conversion charts. To replace eggs in a recipe, for instance, a cook can add one tablespoon water and one tablespoon lecithin.

Soy milk easily replaces cow's milk, Michael said, and it sometimes produces a better texture in the final product.

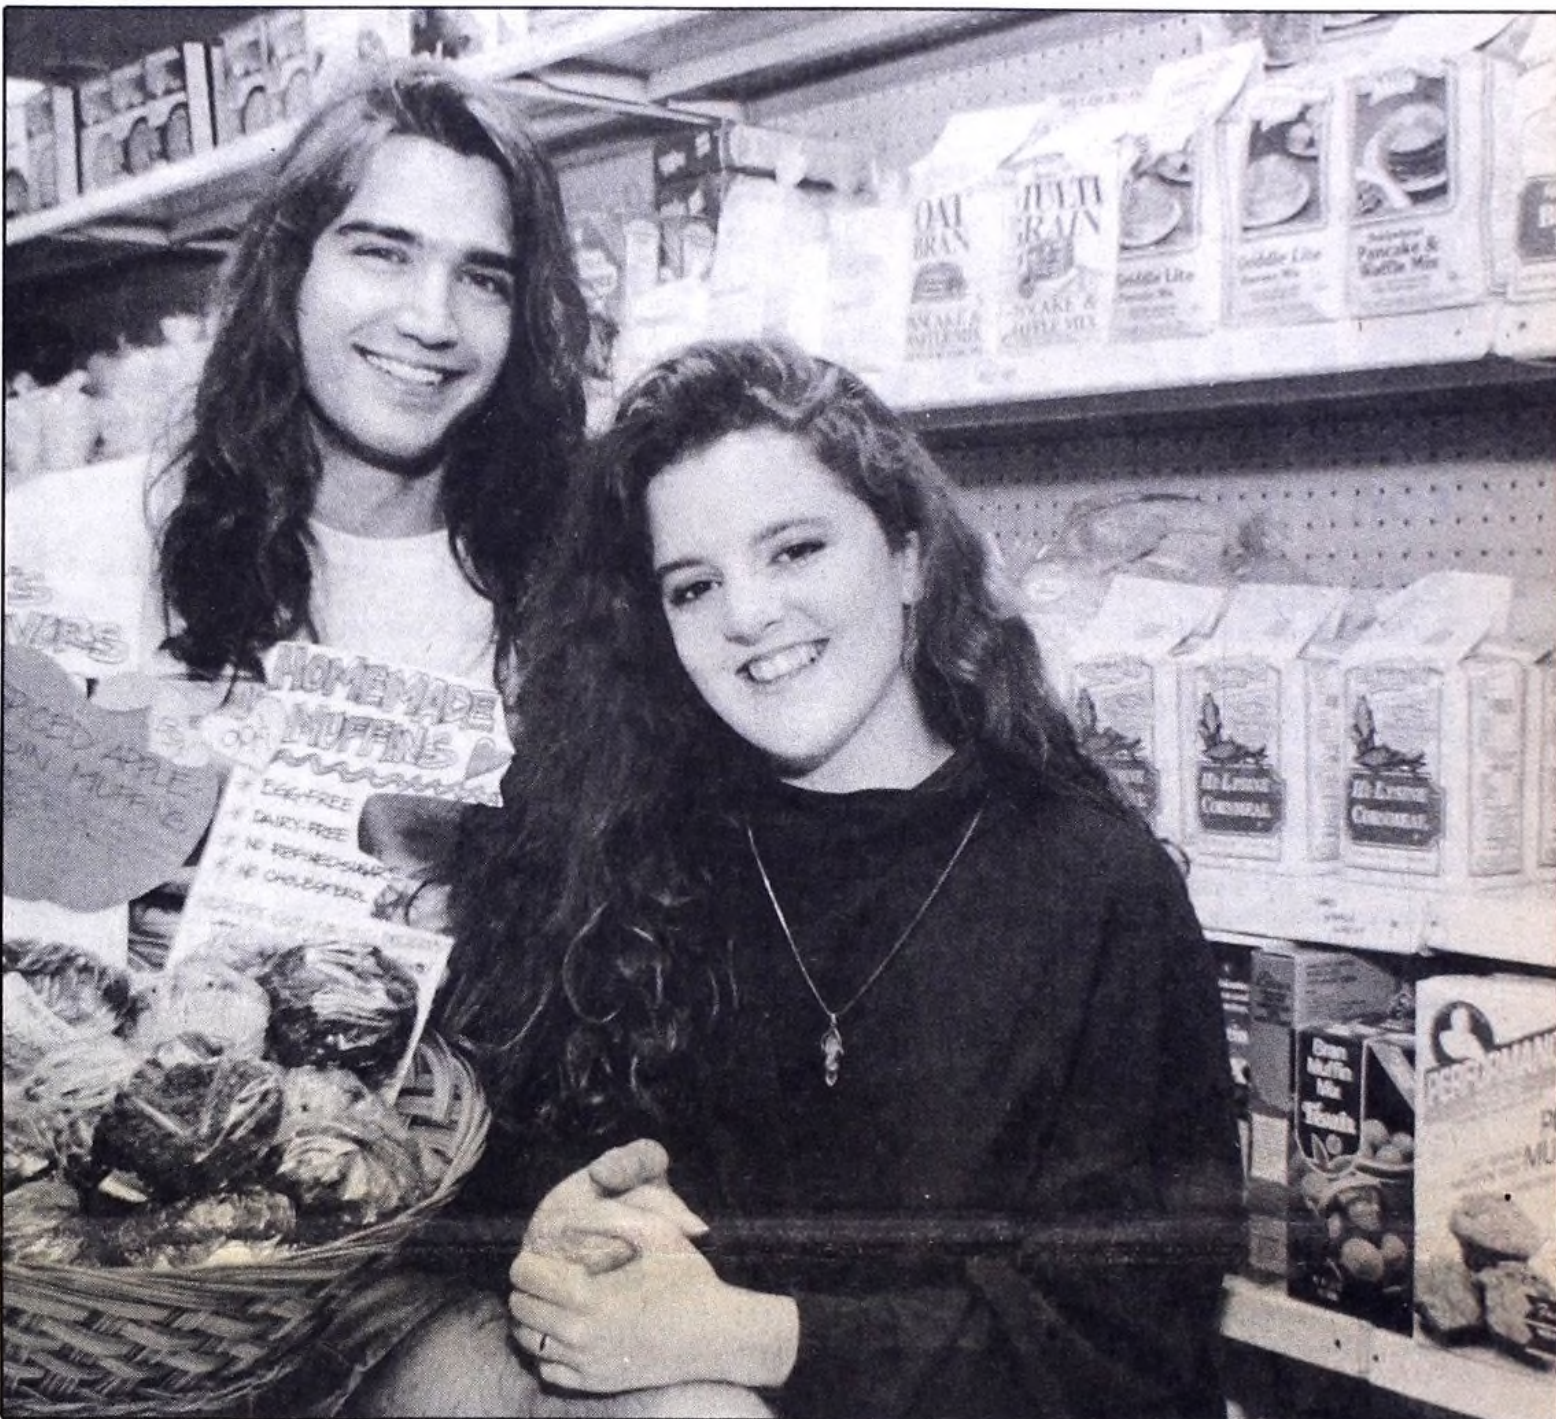

Tying in with meat-free ingredients is the use of whole foods. Michael and Renee define these as unrefined products — whole wheat flour instead of white, honey instead of white sugar, organic produce.

Even a seemingly sinful dessert prepared with these ingredients can be nutritious.

"Every dessert could be good for you," Renee said. "I can eat a muffin and not feel guilty."

However, when cooks substitute ingredients in a recipe, they may want to consider resulting changes. Honey, for instance, can alter the wet-to-dry ratio in a batter. Additional dry ingredients can be added to compensate.

Another consideration, whole grain flour may not rise as easily as the processed kind. It may need to be sifted several times for better results.

Although some of the ingredients Michael and Renee use may seem expensive, such as organic produce, they claim their grocery bill was cut in half when they gave up meat. Five dollars worth of beans and rice goes much further than five pounds of beef, Renee said.

"It's a lot cheaper. Your budget goes down drastically," she said.

To learn more about vegetarian cooking, Michael and Renee suggested reading Diet For A New America by John Robins.

Below is a sampling of vegetarian recipes, some are stricter than others. The first two selections were provided by Michael and Renee.

Easy lentil soup

3 cups lentils
6 1/2 cups water
(or vegetable stock)
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 cup onion, diced

1 cup chopped carrots
1 cup chopped celery

Simmer water and lentils covered for at least one and a half hours or until very soft. Sauté garlic, onion, carrots and celery and add to lentils. Add black pepper to taste. Simmer for another half-hour.

Hummus

2 cups cooked chickpeas (garbanzo beans)
1 cup tahini (sesame butter)
5 cloves minced garlic
1/2 cup fresh squeezed lemon juice
1 1/2 teaspoons ground cumin
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon coriander
1/2 cup water

Blend ingredients well in food processor. Try on whole grain pita bread to make complete protein.

Zucchini and rice bake

2 pounds zucchini
1/4 cup and 1 tablespoon olive oil

1 large onion, minced
2 tablespoons whole wheat flour
1 1/2 cups liquid (zucchini juices and milk)
1 1/2 cups cooked brown rice
1/2 teaspoon thyme
Salt and pepper to taste
3/4 cup grated parmesan cheese plus 2 tablespoons

Coarsely grate zucchini into a set over a large bowl. Squeeze and press, squash down to extract liquid which will collect in bowl. Simmer onion in a quarter-cup oil about five minutes. Add zucchini and garlic. Toss a minute or two. Stir in flour. Cook another couple of minutes. Measure zucchini juices; add enough milk to equal one and a half cups. Blend into squash mixture and add rice, thyme, salt, pepper and three-quarters cup parmesan cheese. Pour into buttered rectangular baking dish. Sprinkle remaining two tablespoons each oil and cheese over top. (Recipe may be prepared ahead to this point and refrigerated).

Prom

Prom styles are taking on a new look this year as high school girls strive for a more sophisticated look. Create great impact at senior prom '90

Prom dresses aren't what they used to be. Saleswomen who remember flowing pastel gowns and long, full skirts from their proms are now selling teens short, sparkly numbers for the dance floor. Teens today are in the market for a more adult look for the prom, said Kim Frazier, assistant sales manager for Susie's Casuals at Westland Center. "This year everything is short and strapless," she said. Frazier defined short as a skirt that falls between the thigh and the knee, a couple of notches above tea length. And the colors — no more lavender and pale pinks. Frazier said white, black, turquoise and green are her strongest sellers. Gown materials basically remain the same. Most dresses are made of silk or taffeta. Fabrics with a "crinkly" look and feel are also doing well with teens, Frazier said. Available at the store are more "traditional" gowns with softer colors and flowing skirts. Frazier called these Southern Belle gowns and said they are not selling well. Melissa Jordan, a saleswoman for Jacobson's in Livonia, agrees the shorter look is in for the prom. In addition to white and black, she said incandescent colors sell well. "The dresses are really sophisticated," she said. Teens are buying accessories that match this new look. Rhinestones for necklaces and earrings sell well, Jordan said. So do long, dramatic-looking gloves. Shawls and short jackets are losing popularity, she added. Laurie Donati, assistant to the owner at Eva's Fashions in Garden City, said some of the popular prom dresses remind her of the "Marilyn Monroe" look. When she mentioned her observation to a customer, she was informed it is not Marilyn Monroe, but Madonna some teens are attempting to emulate. At Eva's, Donati said, tea-length gowns are seeing the most success, and larger sizes seem to be in demand. She said accessories like pearls are still popular, but in small amounts. "Nothing really extravagant." Prices for prom gowns vary sharply. Frazier said dresses are between $100 and $204. Most customers opt for the layaway plan. However, some customers spend up to $400 for their prom gowns, according to Jordan.

A dashing date wears a tuxedo

By JOHN AGGE
ANP Staff Writer

Florescent accessories are in, tennis shoes are out as a fashion statement in prom tuxedo wear, according to local formal wear rental shops.

Instead of the casual look of athletic shoes with a tux, high school juniors and seniors are opting for a formal look with bright, neon-like bow ties, suspenders and cummerbunds.

Also popular this year in Michigan are white gloves for young men to accent the formal atmosphere of the most important social event of their high school career.

"White gloves are always popular in the south," said Estelle Zelasko, plant manager of the Richard Nadeau Company, a formal wear supplier to stores across the country. "The kids in Michigan like to explore different looks and have made gloves an important accessory this year. Next year, it will be something else."

Zelasko said trends vary even within the Metro Detroit area. Some suburbs are moving to a more traditional, conservative look in tuxedos, while some are experimenting with the California neon look. Sue Alföldy, assistant manager of Four Seasons Formal Wear at the 12 Oaks Mall in Novi, said conservative is the look. "Black tuxedos with tails are by far our most popular

Men are just as fashion conscientious as women when it comes to prom night. ANP photo by Patricia Douglas rental," she said. "In fact, we're almost out of them for the proms. After that it would be black without tails and then white tuxedos with tails."

Alföldy said she believed many girlfriends of prom-going males have convinced them the tennis shoe look is not hip anymore.

"Our rentals of patent leather shoes is up from the past," Alföldy said. "It's a much more formal, conservative look than in the past."

Zelasko said another new look this year is luster satin accessories, such as is worn in weddings. "We offer 50 different colors, but the darker colors are more popular — like royal blue cummerbunds," she said.

Top hats and canes, while always available at an extra charge at most rental shops, are not enjoying a resurgence in popularity. In Chicago, however, top hat rentals are booming, Zelasko said.

The average tuxedo rental in the metro area ranges from $45 to 65 plus additional costs for accessories. Shoes run from $8 to 12 and top hats and canes usually average $5.

Designer suits like Christian Dior and Pierre Cardin are often asked for by name, Alföldy said. While they cost more to rent, she said the suits have a nicer fit and look. And, she said, they're "in."

Arrive in style, rent a car

There is no finer way to arrive at your senior prom than in a limousine. In the past few years, this form of transportation has become more and more popular among high school prom-goers.

Elegance is just one reason students are opting for limousine service on prom night. Passengers also don't have to worry about traffic or parking. All of those headaches are left to the driver.

"Limousines are extremely popular for proms," Marci Pierce of Executive Limousine Service said.

Most services require that the limousine be rented for at least six hours. Most of the students like to rent them for this amount of time, Pierce said, because they go to dinner and then usually like to drive around for awhile.

All of the services vary in price, but the average is approximately $50 per hour. Most services offer package deals as well.

"The sooner they reserve the limousines the better," Pierce said.

May is one of the busiest times of year for the limousine business, because of proms and weddings.

Most companies offer a stretch or a super-stretch limo. A stretch limousine will seat four to six passengers comfortably, and a super-stretch will seat eight to 10 passengers comfortably, according to Pierce.

Most students planning to rent a limousine for the prom get together with some friends and split the cost. Pierce said that in the past, they have found the students to be better behaved than many adults who rent the cars.

Besides the hourly fee, there is also a 15- to 20-percent gratuity that must be paid to the driver.

Tresses count at prom

Some women have been known to spend nearly as much time preparing their hair prom night as they devote to finding a gown. After all, a "do" that doesn't go with the dress simply ruins the whole effect.

Local beauticians differ in opinion somewhat about the trends in hair fashion this season. Some believe teens opt for the simple look — loose and natural. Others described more involved styling.

"Everything is real feminine this year," said Kim Nickerson, owner of a Westland salon, Hair Media. "A lot them (teens) are wearing it up."

To create a soft, feminine look, Nickerson said, clients have used laminates (for a shiny appearance), sparkly ribbons and baby's breath.

The flowers can be "glued" right in the hair, Nickerson added. She advises customers use these effects sparingly for greater effect.

There's a lot of ideas we have for special effects, unusual things that make you stand out from the crowd.

— Donna
Bokuniewicz
Stylist

Donna Bokuniewicz is the managing partner for Charles and Co., Hair Designs, Inc. in Canton Township. She helps young women use simple methods to produce sparkling effects.

"There's a variety of things that can be done with hair ornaments," she said.

Bokuniewicz suggested using simple household items, such as styrofoam balls or tongue depressors, and wrapping hair around them.

Another option is hair weaving, a method similar to braiding.

The bob look is very popular, this season, Bokuniewicz added. Girls with long hair can achieve it by ironing their tresses and pulling them in with a wide ribbon.

"There's a lot of ideas we have for special effects, unusual things that make you stand out from the crowd," she said.

Colleen Andrew, owner of JJ's Styling Station in Wayne, argues that girls today are simply wearing their hair loose to the prom.

"Most girls for proms wear their hair natural," she said.

Andrew agreed flowers are still in, but they are losing ground. Silk blossoms can be worn on the side of the head with the hair slightly pulled back, she suggested.

PROM

Local schools prepare for big night

The prom is one of the biggest highlights in the life of a high school student, and this year many high school juniors and seniors will attend the prom at their own school.

Proms are usually staged in the spring and early summer. Dates are chosen and arrangements made, not just for the individuals who plan to attend, but also for those sometimes forgotten people who spend many thankless hours and days planning the prom.

Inkster High School juniors will host the senior prom at 8 p.m. June 1 at the Novi Hilton, according to Karen Tate, junior class advisor.

Several high schools will stage separate proms, due to the large attendance among high schools. Plymouth-Canton High School and Plymouth-Salem High School will combine students for two proms; one for juniors and one for seniors with 1,200 to 1,500 students eligible to attend, according to the activities advisor for Plymouth-Salem High School.

Prom details are of the utmost importance: creating the ultimate theme, moving and setting up tables and chairs and decorating the room with wonderful ornaments. One creative theme "Mystic Masquerade" is being used by Belleville High School. A crystal ball will be the centerpiece on each table with a silver mask for each student, according to Cathryn Alter, student council advisor.

"Here and Now" and "Friends Are For Life, Don't Drink and Drive" are Romulus Senior High School themes, according to the class sponsor. "Hold Onto the Night" is the theme for Livonia Franklin and "A Touch of Class" was chosen by Wayne Memorial.

The decorating of some proms is limited due to the requirements of the rented room. Nearly every school, however, can select prominent colors to accent prom night. Some choices include: rose and silver, John Glenn High School; black, white and silver, Plymouth-Canton High School and Plymouth-Salem High School; pink and blue, Livonia Franklin High School; emerald green and black, Wayne Memorial High School; silver and black, Belleville High School; royal blue and pearl, Romulus Senior High School; medium blue and white, Inkster High School.

From elegant to exquisite, proms will be staged in lavish settings. The John Glenn High School will have its prom May 12 at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn while the Livonia Franklin High School will stage the prom May 18 at the Hellenic Cultural Center in Westland. The Belleville High School prom will be May 11 at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn while the Romulus Senior High School prom is May 11 in the Mackinaw Room at the Westin Hotel in the Renaissance Center.

Usually a couple will prepare for the occasion months in advance, some a week or two before. Planning out prom night is very important to a couple.

First, the date is chosen and asked. Second, the couple looks for their attire. Next, the couple decides where to dine, usually a romantic little booth for two.

Several proms include dinner. Livonia Franklin High School will begin their prom with a dinner at 7 p.m. May 18.

Next, a couple decides on the colors for the corsage and boutonniere. And, on down the list they proceed until the ultimate step, "Dad, can I borrow the Cadillac, Porsche or the Corvette?"

What does it cost for a young couple to attend the prom? The gentleman's tuxedo rental is approximately $70. The lady usually pays $100 or more for a gown. Dinner, if not included with the prom, will cost at least $50. And then there is transportation, corsages, boutonnieres, and the list goes on.

Prom tickets this year are: $16 per person, John Glenn High School prom includes the dance, appetizers and souvenirs; $32 per couple, Plymouth-Canton High School and Plymouth-Salem High School prom includes a sweet table, soft drinks, a prom picture book which includes a picture of each couple; $72 per couple, Livonia Franklin High School prom includes a dinner serving roast beef, chicken, fresh fruit and vegetable; $60 per couple, Belleville High School prom includes a dinner of chicken spitzel with rice pilaf, etc.; $100 per couple, Romulus Senior High School prom includes dinner of lemon-baked chicken, whitefish, pepper steak, etc.; $50 per couple, Inkster High School prom which includes dinner.

The night of the prom is usually a happy one for young people to remember. The cost is trivial compared to the amount of happiness and memories gained.

Corsage should flatter, not overpower

Throughout the spring and early summer, many junior and senior high school students will be whisked away in chariots to the prom.

Dressed to the hilt, ladies and gentlemen will enter the door to the prom in the most fashionable outfits. Perhaps the most eye-catching accessory the teens will wear, however, is the corsage.

The traditional corsage is pinned to the dress of the lady. This year, however, the wrist corsage is the most popular. It is one that is chosen for convenience because many girls wear low-cut or off-the-shoulder dresses.

The corsage is decoration, frivolous and extravagant, worn to emphasize exquisite apparel.

The popular flowers used to make the corsages and boutonnieres are sweetheart roses and mini-carnations, garnished with baby's breath. Subtle pink and white are the most popular colors. For an added touch, some carnations are tipped in a second color, according to Gail Thomas, floral designer, Coy Kendall Flowers, Inc. in Belleville.

This year, the wrist corsage of sweetheart roses with baby's breath is most popular, according to Kathy Graham, owner of Flowers E.T.C. in Westland.

Corsages are one of the last things on the prom-to-do list, among reserving the limousine, finding and buying the attire, reserving a special table at that fabulous restaurant, etc. Don't wait until the last blooming minute, however, order those decorative corsages early.

Area festivals add to summer

Warm weather is always cause for celebration in Michigan, and within the next few months area communities will begin their festivities in earnest.

Spring festivals are planned for Belleville, Canton Township, Romulus and Westland.

Below is a summary of local spring festivals including telephone numbers for additional information.

• Belleville Strawberry Festival, June 15-17. Staged in Downtown Belleville, the three-day celebration features amusement rides, food concessions, entertainment and, of course, strawberries.

The first night of festivities is highlighted by the annual strawberry queen pageant, sponsored by The Belleville Enterprise.

Additional festival activities include arts and crafts shows, community booths, bingo, raffles and games. Call 697-3137.

• Romulus Michigan Week Festival, May 18-20. Beginning with a parade through town, the annual celebration will feature music and dancing, arts and crafts, carnival rides and booths, a Las Vegas tent and raffles.

To celebrate Heritage Day, the Romulus Historic Society and Commission will sponsor a Civil War encampment. Participants dressed in Confederate and Union uniforms will set up their tents at the Romulus Historical Park May 19. A group dressed in civilian clothing from 1860s will also participate.

Also traditional for the Romulus festival is the 10 kilometer fun run and one mile walk/run through town early May 10. Call 942-6852.

• Westland Festival, June 29-July 4. Contests, ranging from longest fingernail and pie eating to bubble gum blowing and beer bellies, are daily during the Westland event.

Kicking off the celebration from 4 to 6 p.m. June 29 is

Amusement rides will make many community festivals enjoyable for kids of all ages. Savanna Watts (above) tried out the merry-go-round last year at the Romulus festival. ANP file photo

Magic Jack's Magic Show. Additional highlights include carnival rides, a fun run, live entertainment, a car show and a beauty contest.

The grand finale, fireworks, will begin at 10 p.m. July 4.

• Canton Challenge Fest '90, May 25-June 3. Canton Township residents are urged to "take the challenge" each spring for this event. The challenge fest in past years featured fun walks and runs, a soccer game, golf tournaments and Youth Fitness Day. Additional event highlights include fireworks, health tests, photography exhibits and a chili cook off. Call 387-1000.

The Wayne Homecoming Festival and Inkster Festival are planned for mid-August.

The Wayne County Fair, complete with amusement park rides, horse shows, watermelon-eating contests and live entertainment, is set for Aug. 7-Aug. 11.

TRAVEL

Toronto deserves more than a weekend

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Toronto has it all and more – a variety of entertainment, shopping, historical sites, museums and restaurants – enough to boggle the mind of most first-time visitors.

The Ontario city, approximately four hours away from the Detroit area, is close enough for a long weekend stay and has enough attractions to lure visitors into weeklong vacations.

Travelers may drive or take a train from Windsor – both about equal in travel time. However, because of the excellent transportation system in Toronto, an automobile is not needed in the city, and may prove to be an inconvenience due to limited parking space around tourist sites and congested traffic on the busy streets. In Toronto, one can truly “leave the driving to us.”

Because of the large number of tourist attractions, it is advisable for first-time visitors to schedule a tour to gain an overall view of the metropolitan area. Then, a few of the major attractions can be selected to visit on the current trip, and other places can be placed on the itinerary for future visits.

“Must sees” in Toronto are Casa Loma and the Ontario Science Center, according to Gary Sampson, of Adventure Travel.

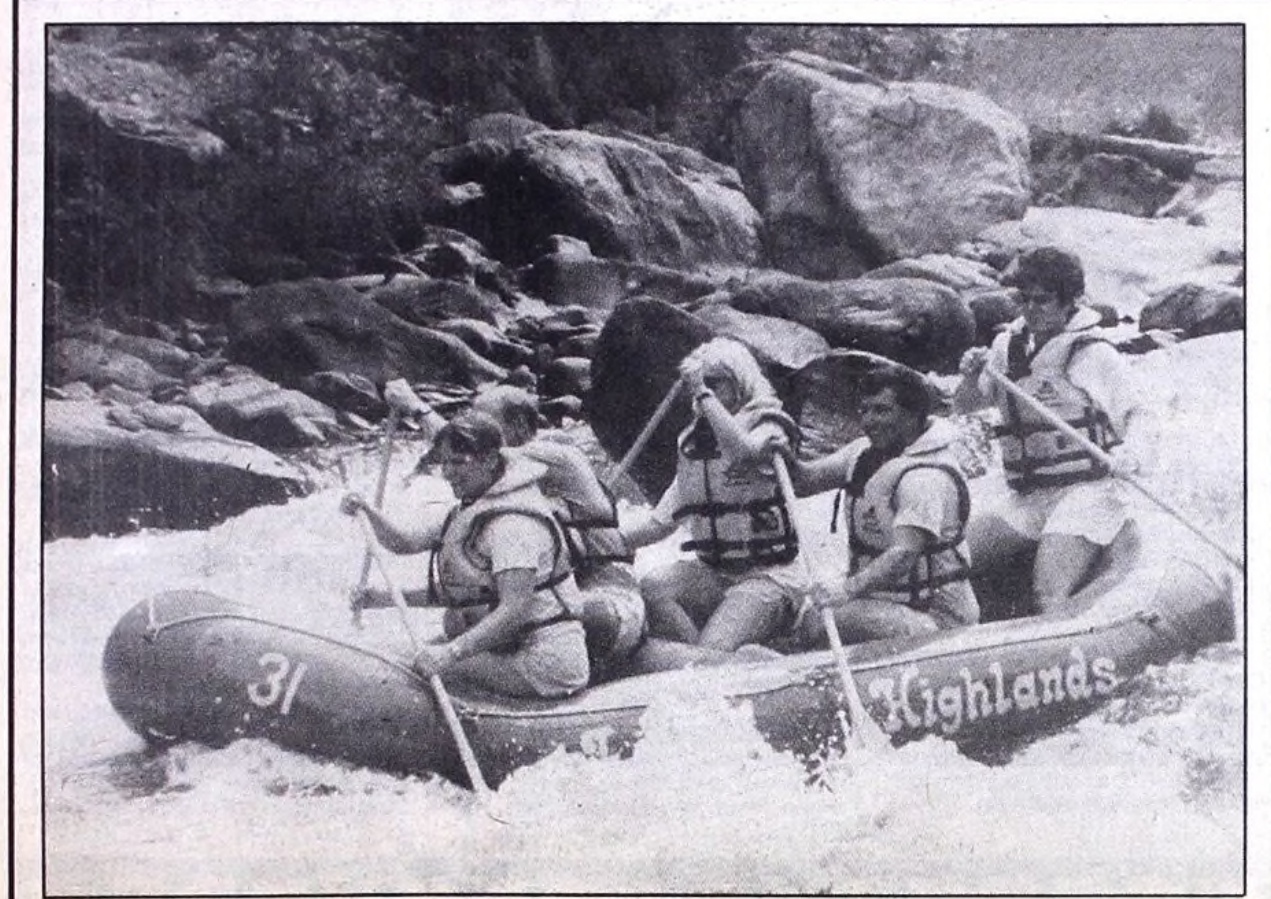

A variety of weekend and three-night packages are available, some including sight-seeing tours, the travel agent said. Other tours include train fares or optional rental car features.

Toronto is one of the few places in North America that features a medieval-style castle in the heart of town. Casa Loma, a 98-room castle, was built between 1911 and 1914 by Sir Henry Pellant, who is described as an “incurable romantic.” He furnished the castle with marble, glass and panelling from Europe and took from Asia to recreate an old world-style castle. The city of Toronto took over the castle in the early 1920s after Pellant could no longer pay the cost of taxes and upkeep on the property. Since 1937, the Kiwanis Club of West Toronto has operated the facility and uses its share of the proceeds for its charitable projects.

One of the most popular current trips is a theater package which includes the play, The Phantom of the Opera at the Pantages Theatre and Les Misérables at the Royal Alexandra Theatre. In addition, Toronto is a tour stop for many top entertainers throughout the year, and the site of the improvisational comedy shows at The Second City.

Baseball fans may want to schedule a visit to the Toronto Blue Jays Skydome when the Detroit Tigers are playing, and hockey fans may want to time their winter trips to watch the rivalry between the Red Wings and Maple Leafs at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Obviously, a visitor cannot enjoy all of the Toronto attractions on a single, short visit. Still to see would be the Art Gallery of Ontario, the Royal Ontario Theater, Ontario Place and a ride to the top of the CN Tower plus....

High seas adventure

Adventure-filled white-water rafting trips are not that far away, according to Rudy Williams, owner of High Adventure Travel. He is currently offering a special trip package for local clubs and organizations, call 595-3674.

CRUISING THE CANALS OF FRANCE

Looking for a week of complete relaxation and absolute peace? Try floating on the tree-lined canals of France while enjoying gourmet French cuisine.

Your barge will have from six to twenty-eight passengers, depending upon the size of the vessel. The boat gets underway in mid-morning. Watch the countryside roll by from the deck or you may choose to walk on the towpaths or bicycle alongside the barge, as you travel from lock to lock. Each day, after lunch, you will moor at a different medieval village. You may explore the town by bus, visit beautiful chateaux, or sample the wines of Burgundy. Each evening brings still a different mooring and the highlight of the day - the five course evening meal.

Traveling through France via the canal system offers a unique opportunity to enjoy the beautiful countryside not seen by the ordinary traveler. Most cruises are for one week, however shorter cruises can often be negotiated as well as private use of the barge.

Twin cabins start at $2,450 per person plus air fare.

Wash rice and beans three times. Add 10 cups water, cook 45 minutes. When beans pop out of skins they are done. Add vegetables and oil. Cook until soft. Add spices. Stir well and cook 15 minutes. Add two-thirds cups Tamari (soy sauce) during last five minutes of cooking. If you wish, use fresh garlic instead of garlic powder. Add two to four cloves, minced, when you add Tamari. Keep close watch on beans—they have a tendency to burn. Final product should be thick. Serve with cheese (or soy cheese) melted on top. Garnish with sprouts. Also good with chopped tomato on side.
